Postal agreement averts strike

Numerous businessmen who rely upon the U.S. Mail to keep their billing and collections moving breathed a sigh of relief Tuesday as it was announced that the U.S. Postal Service and the unions representing postmen reached a tentative agreement following an all-night bargaining session.

Most of us take it for granted that the mailman will come each day and our mail will be delivered. The ramifications of loss of that service are widespread, businesses learned early this week as they started preparing contingency plans to keep operating, should there be a postal strike.

There was a one-week strike in 1970, during which the National Guard was called in to keep the mail moving. A similar situation was narrowly avoided this week and many local residents and businessmen questioned whether Guardsmen would be able to properly sort and deliver the mail in an accurate and timely manner.

It made many realize that a postal strike in the future could have serious impacts on business and life locally. Social Security checks, mortgage payments, business letters, newspapers, magazine subscriptions and other mail could end up in a giant maze — one that could take weeks to straighten out when a strike, if there someday is one, ends.

Kenneth Evers, manager of the Granite City office of Illinois Bell Telephone Co., said the threatened mail strike was the main topic of discussion and communication among phone officials early this week and all indications were that the phone company would continue to use the postal service, even if there was a strike.

Ironically, Evers said he had been receiving teletype messages in the telephone company office keeping him informed of Illinois Bell's contingency plans.

"Our first order of business will be the intake of monies due us," he said when the strike was still threatened. "Believe it or not, the first thing we would like customers to do is mail their payments at the post office or pay in person or at an authorized payment agency," such as banks and some grocery stores, Evers said.

Alternate plans for the billing of customers were studied, he indicated, but said the final plan was to rely on the post office.

"Our 3 1/2 million bills a month are pre-sorted and zip coded and we deliver them to the post office. Even in the return, like customer payments, they have a special zip code number which bypasses much of the post office sorting process and we believe our bills and payments will get through," Evers said.

On the other hand, Chris Olsen, assistant service area manager for Illinois Power Co., said IP had "developed some contingency plans to help us out if there is a strike, but we are hoping we won't have to use them."

He said that rather than utilize the postal service if there had been a postal strike, IP was making plans for a courier system to deliver bills door-to-door. Additional personnel would have been hired, if necessary, to man the system, he added.

Customers were to be encouraged to make their payments in person at the nearest IP office, rather than to mail the payments, Olsen noted.

Whether other businesses would have relied upon a mail system manned by the National Guard, or would have found alternate ways of billing and collecting, was being debated by many businessmen.

"The only concern I would have would be whether the government-appointed employees would be as effective as the regular workers," Bob Karandjeff, executive vice-president of American Heritage Bank, commented.

He said that if there had been a postal strike, "it would primarily be an inconvenience to the customers," particularly those who may have to drive to the bank or night deposit to make payments, rather than mailing them to the bank. "We would probably be a bit more lenient and take that into consideration," Karandjeff added.

He said about 40 percent of the payments the bank receives is by mail. Jack Lee, vice-president of First National Bank in Madison, said, "Although we pick up our mail at the post office, which is just across the street from the bank, a postal workers' strike could affect our business severely."

"We do a lot of business by mail. The bank receives deposits, payments, inquiries and a lot of normal routine business mail daily. We mail out receipts, statements on accounts and interest checks," Lee explained.

Ernest Andrew "Drew" Karandjeff Jr., president of the Granite City (Trust) Bank, said he feels a postal strike, "would affect our customers most drastically, particularly those who receive social security and

GC considers contract services at city treatment plant

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

More heads rolled Tuesday night as the Granite City Council voted to trim up to six positions at the sewage treatment plant and agreed to seek bids to see if it is feasible for the city to contract all or part of the plant's operations out to private contractors.

These were only two of the numerous actions the council took in a session which ended after 11 p.m. Tuesday following more than three hours of wrestling with a proposed city budget and attempting to bring anticipated expenditures in line with available income.

Other major actions the council took Tuesday night included:

—Calling a special session of the council for 7 p.m. today in the council chambers of city hall to further finalize the budget, which must be passed and published by July 31.

—Authorizing the administration to sell up to $900,000 in tax anticipation warrants at about 8 1/2 percent interest, increasing the maximum authorized borrowing from $1 million to $1.2 million. ($900,000 has already been borrowed this year at eight percent interest.)

—Hearing that all outstanding city bills will be paid in full this week, including $839,268 in bills which had been held for payment, some since Feb. 17.

—Authorizing city representatives to appear in court at 11 a.m. today to argue against the granting of an injunction which would restore the 9 percent pay hikes to all employees which Mayor Paul Schuler rolled back by executive order. Chief Circuit Judge Joseph Barr agreed to hear the injunction request after changes of venue were sought from two associate judges.

—Agreed to advertise for applicants for a full-time city comptroller's position. Schuler insists is needed to end the financial chaos in the city treasury.

—Debated the possibility of imposing a utility tax and of asking the state legislature to give authority to the city to impose a sales tax or city earnings tax.

—Rejected, for the present time, proposals to contract out all janitorial, snow removal and street sweeping services in the city.

—And, heard Mayor Schuler level strong criticism against Illinois Power Co. for electric rate increases to the city government which approach 35 percent, effective immediately. "At some point we should consider renegotiating our franchise agreement with Illinois Power, because we've been taken advantage of," Schuler contended.

The lengthy debate was caused, in part, by the aldermen attempting to formulate a budget without knowing what the city's income is likely to be or what funds the city had remaining at the end of the fiscal year which ended May 31.

Mayor Schuler said the major part of the uncertainty over the city's income this year is caused by a tax system which is operating a year and a half behind city budgeting. "In the past, we would have collected all or most of our taxes by now. The whole damn system has gone to pot," the mayor contended.

"We don't know how many dollars we are going to collect until the Board of Review or Evelyn Bowles gives us our rate. They are going to be true to their predictions and be six or seven weeks late again," he added.

Heavy rain, winds sweep area

A storm with heavy rain, hail and high winds of up to 60 miles-per-hour passed through the Quad-City area about 3:15 p.m. Monday, knocking down tree limbs and power lines and flooding streets, but the area was spared the extensive damage the same storm caused in Marine, Troy, Edwardsville and parts of St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Hail of up to one-half inch diameter and rain measuring .68 of an inch fell in the 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. Tuesday, according to Locks and Dam 27 in Granite City, but the rapid rain between 3:15 and 4 p.m. flooded streets and intersections "all through the city," according to Granite City Street Superintendent Lionel Portell.

Approximately 200 Quad-City area residents lost electric power as tree limbs fell on individual power lines, but all customers had power again by 10 p.m. Monday.

Illinois Power did not require additional repairs for this area and was able to send some local repair crews to areas harder hit, such as Marine, according to Chris Olsen, assistant to the service area manager.

Telephone service for more than 500 local homes was interrupted by the storm, but most were repaired by yesterday evening. Water seeped into some underground cables and restoring service to homes served by those cables could take until Saturday, according to Kenneth Evers, manager of the Granite City office of Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Crews have been working overtime since the storm and special crews have been brought in from other parts of the state to help with the repairs, he added.

At Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, the inflated "bubble gym" structure was "ripped to shreds" by the high winds, according to a university spokesman. Several students were trapped inside for a brief time and two were reported injured.

A natural gas leak and downed power line were reported in conjunction with the gym's destruction and campus police blocked streets to the area for about 45 minutes until the danger was corrected.

Near Weldon Spring, Mo., a mobile home court was struck, destroying five mobile homes and injuring three. Sixteen people were injured when a nursery school bus overturned in high winds in St. Charles, Mo.

Two St. Louis television stations and three radio stations were off the air because of power losses and a drive-in movie screen was blown down in Belleville.

Hearing today on wage cutbacks

"We believe the guys who have been laid off are just on a paid vacation," one Granite City policeman said Tuesday night in predicting that at a court hearing today, the court would order all laid-off Granite City employees reinstated with full back pay.

Chief Circuit Judge Joseph Barr was to hold a hearing late this morning on petitions by three unions seeking a restraining order to force the city to reverse a June 30 action which rolled the salaries of city employees back to the April 30 level, thus depriving the employees of the nine percent pay raises negotiated in their union contracts.

In their petitions for the temporary restraining order, the unions contend that the rollback and other acts of the city "constitute unconstitutional attempts to abrogate and set aside duly enacted ordinances and contracts between the city of Granite City and the petitioner herein."

Faced by an anticipated deficit of between $700,000 and $1.2 million by the time new tax monies are received this fall, the city laid off 21 employees last week. Tuesday night, the aldermen ordered that four more be laid off at the sewage treatment plant. With the layoffs and retirements, the city's employment has shrunk by at least 32 persons since austerity cuts began last month and additional retirements expected soon, that number is expected to grow.

If the court today orders the city to rescind the rollbacks on wages, whether or not the order is retroactive to June 30, Mayor Paul Schuler has stated flatly that there will be additional layoffs ordered.

The city is encouraging retirements by those inclined to do so. Tuesday night, the council agreed to rescind the wage rollbacks for three high-ranking firefighters who agreed to retire, if the rollbacks were lifted. Since their pensions are based upon a percent of their last salaries before retirement, the rollback would have reduced their pensions by nine percent for as long as they receive pension benefits.

The rollbacks were rescinded for Shift Commander Leonard Wilson, Capt. Leroy Harshbarger and Capt.

Madison 'mall' a reality

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

After three years in the planning, more meetings than one can count, hours and hours of paperwork, plus bulldog determination, the proposed Alpine Village Shopping Mall on the corner of Third Street and Madison Avenue, is becoming a reality and is scheduled to open this December.

The city will receive sealed bids on the new construction of the Alpine Village Shopping Mall, according to contract documents prepared by General Design, Inc., of Greenville, Ill.

Bids will be opened at the Tuesday, Aug. 18, city council meeting.

The specifications call for a 12,000 square foot commercial building. The Farm Fresh Dairy shops, and Reese's Drug stores have each signed letters of intent to each occupy 6,000 square feet.

Estimated cost of the construction will be approximately $400,000 with financing from Community Development funds and selling Industrial Revenue Bonds.

"I feel we will have a lot of contractors seeking the contract. This will be a real attraction in our city and a boon to the business district," Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk told the council.

At the Tuesday, Oct. 7, 1978, meeting the Madison City Council approved paying General Design Co. the initial $3,000 retainer toward their fee for designing the new shopping center, and the project officially began.

In other council action, Mayor Sasyk called for the police to begin a "crack down" on speeders and stop sign violators within the city.

"We need to keep everyone safe in our community and this means the police will have to start making speeding and stop sign arrests," Sasyk said.

John Dutko, building inspector, reported that the condemned structure at 1829 Collinsville Ave. was about 90 percent down.

Fourth Ward Alderman Mike Sikora, addressing the mayor and council, asked, "What can we do about the high

More replacement taxes distributed

A total of $121.8 million in corporate personal property replacement tax revenue has been sent to local units of government in the fifth of eight payments which will be made in 1981, according to J. Thomas Johnson, director of the Illinois Department of Revenue.

Replacement taxes distributed so far this year amount to $401.7 million. The 1,018 public school districts have received the largest share of this money — $210 million, or 52.3 percent.

Next in line are municipalities, given $81.5 million, or 20.3 percent.

County governments have received $34.3 million, or 8.7 percent.

The remainder has been distributed to townships, junior colleges, park and sanitary districts, and other special districts.

The replacement taxes were authorized in August 1979 by the Illinois General Assembly to provide substitute funds for local governments after the corporate personal property tax was abolished, effective in 1979, by the 1970 state constitution.

The replacement taxes are: a 2.5 percent income tax on corporations; a 1.5 percent income tax on partnerships, trusts, and subchapter S corporations; and a 0.8 percent tax on the invested capital of utilities.

Under the new system, taxes are collected by the Illinois Department of Revenue and the money is distributed to local governments in January, March, April, May, July, August, October and December.

Payments to local-level governments are expected to total nearly $510 million during 1981.

Many interstate trucks avoid Illinois diesel tax

Illinois Department of Revenue agents conducted a spot check of 182 trucks and other commercial vehicles at Chicago Heights on July 15 to see if they were in compliance with the Illinois Motor Fuel Tax Act. Of the vehicles stopped, 16 were issued citations for not displaying special fuel permits.

So far this summer, five spot checks have been conducted at four different locations — Frankfort, Pontiac, Bolingbrook and Chicago Heights. Of the 1,554 vehicles checked, 136 were found not to be displaying their permits.

According to a 1977 amendment to the Motor Fuel Tax Act, interstate commercial vehicles using diesel fuel are required to register with the state and pay motor fuel taxes on the miles driven within the state. A separate amendment effective in 1980 provides for citations and penalties for those vehicles not having the Interstate Special Fuel Permit or a Single Trip Special Fuel Permit before operating their vehicles on Illinois roads.

Truck drivers in violation of the law are given a $35 traffic violation and $50 penalty for not displaying the special fuel permit. In addition, they are required to purchase the $10 permit before they can proceed on their way.

Trucking firms may register with the department by contacting: Illinois Department of Revenue, Application Processing Unit, P.O. Box 4005, Springfield, Ill. 62708.

Single trip permits may be obtained from various permit and license services as well as several Illinois truck stops.

The law applies only to interstate vehicles using diesel fuel. Vehicles operated solely within Illinois and government vehicles are exempt.

Truck stops making permits available include the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza, 1-55 and 70, East St. Louis; 1-55-70 Car and Truck Plaza, 55-70 at Route 162, Troy; and St. Louis East Truck Plaza, also at 55-70 and 162, Troy.

Department of English-SIU

"One can be 'worldly' or 'world-wise,' but can one be 'worldly wise'?" asks a St. Louis reader. "Wouldn't it sound better just to call someone 'worldly' instead of 'worldly-wise'?"

First off, there are only two options, not three. "World-wise" is not a recognized locution. One can be "penny-wise" and "street-wise" and "world-weary," but one is never "world-wise," just as one is never "pennily-wise," "streetly-wise," or "worldly-weary." It is a matter of long-established habit.

And I do mean long-established. "Worldly" existed in Old English, long before the time of Chaucer and, in fact, long before we settled upon the "ly" spelling of the suffix. Originally it was "worldlice."

The compound "worldly-wise" first appeared around 1400, the year Chaucer died, in this sonnet little jingle: "Worldly wys is gostly nys"—"Worldly-wise is spiritually rich."

"Worldly" and "worldly-wise" are not really synonymous, one to be preferred to the other chiefly on the grounds of sonority. To be "worldly" is to be devoted to the ways of the world, to be engrossed with material and sensual gratification.

To be "worldly-wise" is to be sophisticated, to be shrewdly aware of what constitutes worldliness. Although one of the surest ways of becoming "worldly-wise" is by first being "worldly," that is not a necessary step, any more than it is necessary to swallow poison in order to understand its properties and effects. To use a current phrase, no "hands-on training" is required.

It might be a serious blunder to call someone "worldly" when you meant "worldly-wise."

Send your questions or comments to Prof. Garry N. Murphy, Dept. of English, Box 43, SIUE, Edwardsville, Illinois 62026.

budget, which was passed last summer, are to be collected later this summer, after state and county assessment multipliers are applied and tax bills are prepared. A tax rate to support the 1982 budget the aldermen are now attempting to finalize will not be decided until tax collection time in the summer of 1982. Therefore the city and most taxing bodies are more than one year behind in collecting taxes to support their budgets.

Alderman Warren Decatur of the council's finance committee said the city treasurer Nick Petrillo, who is recuperating from surgery, still is ill and will not return to work until next month. However, Decatur said, the information the finance committee has been able to obtain indicates that the city income last year totaled $5,516,000, including $3,555,054 to the general fund, and income this year not likely to exceed last year's by much, if any.

General fund revenues included $1,687,170 from the sales tax, $718,469 from state income taxes, $1,022,002 from the corporate replacement tax, $146,000 from court fines, $478,936 from federal revenue sharing grants, $518,535 from the military fuel tax, and $965,506 from the general fund tax.

"This has got to be some kind of a guide to our income for the coming year," Decatur said.

A proposed budget for 1981-82 submitted by the administration Tuesday night for the council to consider totals $5,928,206, excluding the sewage treatment plant and library which are funded by separate tax levies and are supposed to be self-supporting.

The new budget is still $412,206 higher than last year's receipts, not counting possible overruns from the sewage treatment plant, which were estimated at $373,642 before the slashes in manpower ordered by the council Tuesday night.

And, the $900,000 in tax anticipation warrants the council will borrow this week, will have to be paid "off the top," when the new taxes are received, before any money can be applied to city purposes.

Alderman Paul Fisk questioned the logic of reducing the manpower at the sewage treatment plant, saying, "Laying off three, four or five people isn't going to make up for a $300,000 deficit. There are going to have to be other adjustments." Decatur pledged that others are being made and said the layoffs are "just a part of it."

When Decatur ran for mayor earlier this year, he contended that the sewage treatment plant was overstaffed and cuts should be made. Now, as chairman of the pollution plant committee, he is recommending that the city investigate drastic changes including the possibility of turning the entire plant operation over to a private contractor, as the Army did with the Granite City Army Installation.

A separate story on the recommendations concerning the treatment plant operations appears elsewhere in today's Press-Record.

Alderman Mac Wardfield of the Sixth Ward objected to the types of financial information the city was receiving, saying the figures were "too far off" and it is getting very difficult to make one week to go to make our budget."

Schuler admitted that his administrative aide, David Nolan, had "hurriedly put these together from the figures you gave him at the last meeting," but contended, "In all respect to the aldermen, I think you have enough information now to make up your own budgets."

Schuler said Nolan is on vacation and will not be available for tonight's budget talk.

Several aldermen suggested that tonight's meeting be delayed until Monday night, when Nolan is available to explain the figures, but City Clerk Robert W. Stevens said his office will need the time between Thursday and next Tuesday's council meeting to type and prepare the tentative budget upon which the aldermen agree tonight. He said that if a tentative budget is not agreed upon until Monday night, his office would be unable to prepare it for final passage Tuesday night and legal publication in the Press-Record Thursday, July 30. (Legal publication of the budget is required by midnight July 31.)

The sample budget given to the aldermen by the administration Tuesday night calls for appropriating $334,285 for general government purposes, $9,300 as the city's share of operating the pump station at the Army installation, $36,000 for city hall maintenance and expenses, $34,895 for the inspection department, $39,196 for the maintenance department, $3,650 for city planning, $38,900 for air pollution, $50,137 for the city engineering office, $150,300 for administrative expenses, and $150,300 to retire the general obligation bond issue for sewer particular area number three.

Also, $1,458,292 for the police department, $1,147,501 for the fire department, $200,000 for the street service, $1,034,360 for the street department, $527,857 for the sanitation department, $67,472 for maintenance of sewers, $22,000 for city hall, $18,165 for the safety department and $300,000 each for the fire and police pension funds.

The pollution plant committee's budget proposal for the treatment plant currently has $2,194,945 budgeted for operating that department, but Decatur has pledged that amount will be reduced by the time the budget is passed.

The appropriation for the library operations also is to be decided tonight, but is expected to be close to the $512,715 appropriated last fiscal year. The community development grant budget also is blank in the proposed budget presented to the council Tuesday night and additional information on anticipated revenue to that fund is expected tonight.

Tilghman A. Feeler, past Grand Knight of Tri-Cities Council No. 1088, Knights of Columbus, has been appointed district deputy for District 69.

He replaces Dr. John R. Vasiloff, also a past Grand Knight, who has been the district deputy for the past four years.

government checks in the mail.

"This is another argument for direct deposit of government checks," he contended, saying that the bank can make arrangements to have social security and other government checks deposited directly into the customer's checking or savings account, instead of having the checks mailed individually to the customer.

"We get these from the government by direct transfer. Although it comes through the mail, I believe there would get through, because a lot of people would be hurt if they didn't," Krandjeff said.

He said the recent addition of total teller machines also could aid customers in making payments and transactions without going to the bank, should there ever be a postal strike.

In addition to interfering with billing and collecting, a mail strike could greatly increase the amount of business which would be conducted by telephone, in lieu of letters.

Evers commented, "We estimate a big increase would occur in the volume of calls, but the majority would be business-related and not major city to major city. We are pretty well equipped to handle that sort of thing," he added.

Other types of delivery service were reported, gearing up early this week for an anticipated increase in business. A spokesman for United Parcel Service said the company was "beefing up" its staff this week, just in case.

All indications are that talks of a postal strike are over and that the American Postal Workers Union and the National Rural Letter Carriers Association will accept the tentative agreement, but the post office warns that the raises may result in a rise in the cost of a first-class letter to 20 cents soon.

Approximately 600,000 postal workers will receive at least $2,100 more per employee over the three-year contract period, plus unlimited cost-of-living adjustments.

If the cost of first-class postage is increased 20 cents, as the Postal Service has already requested, Postmaster General William F. Bolger has pledged, "We'll be able to hold it to 20 cents for several years, if we get it (the increase) soon."

Every cloud has a silver lining. Stamp collectors have had a hard time keeping up with the profusion of the new "B" stamp, the old 18-cent stamp and all the new three-cent and 18-cent stamps issued since postage rose from 15 cents. Now, the possibility lurks for a "C" stamp, a two-cent stamp and a wide variety of new 20-cent stamps being issued.

At least the postal carriers and stamp collectors should be happy. The effect on businesses and the individuals of another 11 percent increase in the cost of postage is yet to be seen.

Wage cutbacks hearing

James Reiter, effective immediately, and Mayor Schuler said, "There is no intention to force anybody to retire — just a little motivation."

Later he said, "I'm sure that for anyone who wants to retire, that (rescinding the rollback) will be done."

The fire department was still in the process of reorganizing from last week's resignation of Capt. Harvey Smallie. Tuesday night, the council approved the promotions of Engineer William Hodge to the rank of captain and the promotion of Pipeman Keith Talley to the rank of engineer, both effective immediately.

A recommendation from the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners that the council hire Robert M. Mink Jr., 2158 State St., as a probationary fireman to fill the vacancy was tabled by the council, which cited Schuler's mandated hiring freeze as a reason for not accepting the recommendation.

Schuler said, however, that some of the reductions in emergency services may be reconsidered. "Just because the police department is cut by four patrolmen doesn't mean we won't if the funds are there or if we need it. The same is true of the fire department where the six people (laid off and leaving) represent about a 15 to 18 percent reduction," he stated.

The petitions which were to be heard in court today do not directly seek reversal of any layoffs, unless they were in violation of union contracts. "The petitions have been filed on behalf of Firefighters Local 253, Teamsters Local 525 (representing street, sanitation and human department employees) and two locals of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (which represent policemen and the city's clerks and secretaries)."

In a separate matter, AFSCME is contending that William Dallas Jr., who was laid off as secretary of the city's inspection department last week, was improperly laid off, since he had more seniority than other AFSCME employees in the department who were retained.

Three letters signed by nine citizens were read at Tuesday night's city council meeting which praised Dallas' work and contended, "It is not in the best interest of the city" to lay him off since he is "qualified for the post, acts in a professional manner and is a valuable employee of the city."

Dallas said the letters were from friends who wanted to help him. Schuler said at the meeting, "I concur with the letters. Unfortunately, that is the way we had to go." At Schuler's recommendation, the council voted to place the letters on file and take no further action, at this time.

The court's decision today, if there is any, as well as plans for future management of the city's departments, is expected to be discussed tonight by the city council, which is to meet in special session at 7 p.m. in the city council chambers of city hall. The meeting will be open to the public.

Heavy rains, winds knocked out and the hospital had to utilize emergency generators. A tornado was sighted near Hillsboro, Mo., and two funnel clouds began to form over St. Louis, but did not touch down there, authorities said.

The storm eased shortly after 4 p.m. and the flooded streets in this area soon drained. Lift stations in the storm sewers were reported overloaded throughout the city at 4:10 p.m., but there were no major breakdowns of the lift stations, Portell noted.

A street light post was broken and power line downed at Nameoki Road and Madison Avenue, near Granite City High School South, at 3:30 p.m. Monday and an Illinois Power Co. crew responded immediately to make repairs.

Street department work crews were dispatched throughout the city Tuesday to pick up fallen limbs and trees, "as we can get to them," Portell said.

The storm and rain totaling 37 of an inch in the 24 hours which ended at 8 a.m. Monday, brought the total for the first 21 days of July to 4.63 inches, well above the normal of 3.30 inches for the month. Thus far this year, rainfall has totaled 22.37 inches, more than an inch above the normal of 21.27 inches.

weeds between State Street and Grand Avenue at 10th? Those weeds are really high and a health hazard. I have had several complaints from the people around there."

Health Inspector Vasil Gravelle informed the council that the owner was looking for someone to cut the weeds and he would follow up on the situation. A letter from Mrs. Stephen Krajnovich was read in which she complimented the city dogcatcher for finding her lost dog and puppy, and for the work of the Madison police department.

Walter Milton named to park board

Walter Milton, 48, of 3214 Wabash Ave., was appointed Wednesday night to the vacant seat on the Granite City Park Board of Commissioners. The appointment will be until the April 1983 regular election at which time Milton could decide to run for the two remaining years of the unexpired six-year term of former commissioner David Nolan.

Nolan submitted his letter of resignation to the board effective June 30.

Milton was sworn into office by Frank Rea, board secretary, at the beginning of the meeting.

A lengthy discussion on the condition of the two tennis courts resurfaced last fall resulted in the scheduling of a meeting with the park district's engineers to discuss the district's position and to evaluate what can be done to get the courts repaired.

Letters have been sent to the C.D. Peters Construction Co., contractors for the resurfacing project, and their bonding company, Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, stating that the park district finds the work done by C.D. Peters to be unacceptable. Large cracks have developed on both courts and have widened with the passing of time, the park board contends.

A representative of Illinois Bell addressed the board and asked that the telephone company be allowed to construct two cross-connect assemblies on park property. Illinois Bell engineer J. Dennerlein, explained that two 10-by-10 foot easements would be necessary and that the amount to be paid to the district would be negotiable.

Action on this request was tabled until the commissioners have more time to study the request. Possible action could come at the next meeting of the board on July 29.

It was reported that the Fourth of July festivities in the park shows a profit of $2,547 at present, but it was explained that several outstanding expenditures still remain to be paid. The two country-western groups which performed during the five-day celebration are to be contacted to appear again at next year's festival.

The commissioners were told that more than 300 persons attended the first Big Band Concert at Stearns Park and that the second in the series will be held tonight, Thursday, July 23, at the Lincoln Place Community Center. Two other concerts later in the year are also scheduled.

In other action the board of commissioners:

— Approved the finance and monthly treasurer's report in addition to the minutes of the last meeting.

— Discussed state legislation concerning parks and recreation.

— Announced the closing of the Wilson Park pool for the season. The last day will be Sunday, August 30, with the following schedule for the last week of operation: August 26 through 28 the pool will be open from 4 to 8 p.m. and during regular operating hours on August 29 and 30.

— Announced that the senior citizen picnic will be held on Thursday, Sept. 10. The location is still undecided.

Instructed the board attorney to prepare specifications for the sanding and painting of the ice rink ceiling and to prepare a call for bids for the work. Opening of the bids has been set for the August 26 meeting.

Instructed Harold Brown, director of parks and recreation, to contact the Prudential Insurance Company about the doubling of insurance premiums for park district employees and to prepare a comparison between the Prudential plan and another possible company being considered.

— Approved a resolution approving ABC Electric as the contractor for the lighting of the basketball court on Benton Street near 27th Street. The company was the low bidder for the project.

Board President George Sykes, also the planning committee chairman, instructed the other commissioners to bring with them at the next meeting any specifications they deemed necessary for the position of director of parks and recreation, being vacated by Brown in April of 1982, so that some ground rules can be compiled and that future advertising can be discussed for the position.

The meeting was recessed until Wednesday, July 29, when the board will act on the appropriations ordinance, required by law to be approved by July 31.

Hearing Sept. 21 on NLRB charges against GC Journal

By GARY SCHNEIDER

In light of unfair labor practices charges filed by the National Labor Relations Board against the Granite City Journal, Inc., Monday, the St. Louis Newspaper Guild wrote a letter yesterday to Journal president and publisher Red Sanders asking him to recognize the Guild as bargaining agent for the Journal's approximately 20 employees, and "begin negotiations as soon as possible."

Monday's charges will be reviewed during a Sept. 21 formal hearing before an administrative law judge in St. Louis.

The alleged activities of Sanders and the Granite City Journal "preclude the holding of a fair election or rerun election," the NLRB charged and said the actions by Sanders and the Journal warrant immediate recognition of the St. Louis Newspaper Guild as bargaining agent for the employees.

Nineteen charges were filed by the NLRB Monday against the Journal, most naming Sanders directly and charging him with specific actions between May 7 and May 24 designed to hinder or block formation of the union at the Journal. Charges include threatening employees with job loss if they tried to form a union, harassing employees and encouraging them to spy on others involved in union activities.

Five former Journal employees have charged formally that they were fired for activities related to the union-organizing effort prior to the June 25 union election. Sanders said this morning that he has no comment about the NLRB's allegations.

Robert Steinke, executive secretary of the St. Louis Newspaper Guild, yesterday hailed the NLRB's findings and predicted, "This is the beginning of organizing all of their metropolitan papers."

He said the Guild has been attempting to organize all of the Donnelly Publications Inc. of St. Louis newspapers, but has met the stiffest opposition from the Granite City Journal.

The Granite City Journal is owned by James and Robert Donnelly, who also owns Donnelly Publications Inc. Daniel Donnelly has recently been named advertising manager of the free paper.

Eighteen Granite City Journal employees voted in a union recognition election June 25. The announced results of that election were six for the Guild, six against having union recognition and six contested ballots, the contents of which have not been announced.

The Guild filed objections with the NLRB, alleging violations of the National Labor Relations Act and asking "that the election conducted June 25, 1981, be set aside and held for a new election."

The NLRB concluded Monday that the Granite City Journal "is interfering with, restraining and coercing its employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed (by the National Labor Relations Act)."

Police interrupt furniture thefts

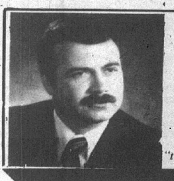

Thefts at a storage center at 2901 Pontoon Road were interrupted by police who took an out-of-town man into custody at 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Taken from storage bins were a kitchen table and a wooden barrel owned by Wendy Bell of Collinsville, and a new table, four chairs and a hutch owned by Lynn Blum, 2417 Glen Place.

Efforts are being made to trace stolen items to Wood River and Staunton, Ill. Charges are pending.

THEFT FROM TV VAN

Three $45 cable television converters were stolen from a parked South-Western Cable TV Co. van Tuesday morning in an alley in the 900 block of Niedringhaus Avenue.

Venice township to halt fire payments

Fire protection to Eagle Park Acres will no longer be paid for by Venice Township beginning Saturday, Aug. 1, according to Christ N. Paschoff, supervisor of the township.

Paschoff in a letter dated Monday July 20, informed Mayor Tyrone Echols of Venice, and Eddie Lee Salmond in Eagle Park Acres about stopping the payments.

Paschoff said in part, "Due to the awesome burden which has been placed on Venice Township in providing fire protection for that part of Eagle Acres which is located within Venice Township, we are hereby advised that Venice Township does hereby terminate, effective August 1, 1981, its agreement with the city of Venice to pay for fire protection services and fire calls made by the Venice Fire Department in Eagle Acres and the Eagle Park Acres about stopping the payments.

Paschoff went on to note that Venice Township is siding the Eagle Acres Fire Protection District in building their own fire house and in all probability will assist them in obtaining a fire truck and other fire fighting equipment.

Mayor Echols told the Press-Record today that he had not received the letter yet and before he could comment on it he would have to meet with the aldermanic fire committee and fire chief.

Arrest teenage girls in theft

A Bi-State bus was halted on Nameoki Road at 5:30 p.m. Saturday and three passengers, all teenage girls from Venice, were arrested and charged with two counts of theft, following an alleged shoplifting spree at Granite City shopping centers.

Initially, an officer was called to Shoe Fair, a Crossroad Plaza Shopping Center, where a clerk alleged two pairs of shoes, each worth $10.50, had been taken by four teenage girls.

A description of the girls was given and the officer saw the quartet enter a Bi-State bus outside Wendy's Hamburger restaurant, 25 Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

The officer stopped the bus and the girls, including a 12-year-old who was not charged, were asked to alight.

A package containing some items was found underneath the bus where the girls were standing, police said.

Items recovered included belts, a gold chain, an umbrella, a carton of cigarettes, two pairs of moon boots, blouses, three packages of Polaroid film and anidlet socks, all allegedly taken from K-Mart store; two jogging suits, shorts and halter tops from Fashion Gap in the Crossroad Plaza Shopping Center; and the shoes.

Complaints were signed and two counts of theft were filed against the 15-year-old girls and a 14-year-old girl.

Their parents were notified and all were released on notice to appear at a later date.

News notes

SIU Chancellor Kenneth Shaw arrived in Japan Wednesday for a two-week stay as a guest of the private Japan Foundation, whose aims are to promote cultural contact between Japan and other nations. On Tuesday, he said state budget cuts outlined Monday would allow the university to "continue its teaching, research and service efforts without sacrificing quality."

A cost containment program announced this week by the Illinois Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plan seeks to encourage "coordinated home care."

Circuit Clerk William V. Portell said this week a state fire inspection of the Madison County Courthouse supports his contention that cramped office space is creating hazards.

Associate Judge Jonathan Tash on Tuesday continued until July 30 a lawsuit seeking to force preservation of the old Madison County jail. He will rule then on whether to dismiss the suit.

The Bi-State Development Agency board will meet July 31 on its transit committee recommendation to raise regular bus fares from 50 to 60 cents during rush hours and express and rapid fares from 75 to 80 cents. The effective date would be Aug. 24.

TWO CHARGES FILED Criminal damage to property and disorderly conduct charges were filed against Andrew L. Forehand, 29, of 2400 Washington Ave., at 11:11 a.m. Friday, on a complaint signed by Meredith Fassold, 2028 Grand Ave. The arrest followed an argument during which Forehand allegedly kicked a large dent in a door on Fassold's auto.

CHILDREN SET FIRE Two small children are suspected of having set a fire which caused minor damage to the skirting of the mobile home of Robert Lowe, 2809 Marshall Ave., at 3:50 p.m. Friday. Authorities said a small fire had been built beside the plastic skirting, which caused the damage.

Wissore to head college

Dr. Bruce A. Wissore, 33, was chosen as the new president of Belleville Area College at a special board meeting Wednesday afternoon. He had been the acting president since the resignation of Dr. William Keel a year ago.

The vote was 4-2, and the majority decision was supported in a written statement by Jack Becker, who was absent due to illness. Casting affirmative votes were Chairman Robert Dintelmann, Avery Schermer, Patricia Bartokas and Curt Becker.

Opposed were Trustees Elizabeth Jenner and Edward O'Malley, plus a student trustee, Tamara Jones, whose advisory vote cited friction between the acting president and some of the faculty.

The contract is for three years, and in the first year Dr. Wissore will receive his present salary of $45,000.

Dintelmann urged unity, saying the board has watched Dr. Wissore work "under great pressure. We are convinced he has the background, desire and ability to give the outstanding leadership we so urgently need."

The new president said he looks forward to "cooperation of all parties," to continue to move BAC toward its goals.

Mrs. Jenner said the board's objectives have been "productivity, efficiency and accountability" but that Dr. Wissore has "exhibited inability, insensitivity, and a shallowness toward human dignity in the implementation of these objectives."

At the board's urging, Dr. Wissore has spearheaded efforts to increase faculty productivity and balance the college's budget. Progress has been made toward these goals, all concede, and the administration says objective tests show student learning has improved.

Donald Libby, who headed the faculty negotiating committee, said there has been harassment of teachers, and predicted that it will continue. There was a two-week faculty strike last fall.

He said his group is in sympathy with a request for a North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools review of BAC administrative policies, including alleged reward-punishment tactics. Miss Jones contended that accreditation may be in jeopardy.

The board had interviewed four of seven semifinalists, including Dr. Wissore. The seven were recommended by a board-campus search committee from among 93 applicants.

A national consulting firm suggested this spring that an "audit" might be the best choice for the president.

Citizens for Quality Education, an independent group, has filed a complaint over "loss of academic freedom, dangerously low faculty morale, questionable administrative and board procedures, and loss of credibility for the total college within the community."

The American Association of University Professors said it favored the presidency Richard G. Erzen, a former community college president who is assistant vice-president of corporate education for NCR Corp. in Dayton, Ohio.

Dr. Wissore was a special agent in Army intelligence before joining BAC as an assistant to the president in 1973. In 1977, he became BAC vice-president for executive services. He holds a doctorate in administration of higher education from St. Louis University.

Methods of treating heat victims

The heat wave of 1980 was considered the worst dose of hot weather in 26 years in the United States. Temperatures consistently rose above 100 degrees Fahrenheit, crops withered and 1,200 people were killed.

Hopefully, the summer of 1980 will not repeat itself in 1981, but you should be ready for the worst. Be alert for the warning signs of heat illnesses.

For example, the symptoms of heat cramps—the mildest heat illness—include severe muscle cramps and pain, dizziness and exhaustion. Cramps are caused when the body loses too much salt through perspiration, so the solution is to give the victim sips of salt water. Put one teaspoon of salt in a quart of water and have the victim drink a half glass every 15 minutes for one hour. Also, massage the cramped muscles.

Two heat illnesses that often get confused are heat exhaustion and heat stroke. But there are important distinctions between them.

Heat exhaustion, which is less serious than heat stroke, results when your water intake fails to make up for water lost through sweating. The symptoms are fatigue, faintness, a weak and rapid pulse, clammy perspiration and white skin. The victim usually is conscious.

To treat heat exhaustion, first take the victim to a cool, comfortable place and put him in a reclining position. Lower the victim's body temperature by either putting cool, moist cloths on the victim's forehead and wrists or cooling with a bath or shower.

Give the victim the same amount of salt water as recommended for a person with heat cramps. Consult a physician and make sure the victim takes it easy for two to three days.

If heat exhaustion is not treated, it can lead to the threatening heat stroke. The major characteristic of heat stroke is extremely high body temperatures that could even exceed 106 degrees F. In Atlanta during last year's heat wave, a 51-year-old man suffered a heat stroke and his body temperature reached 115.7 degrees F. Amazingly, he survived.

The reason that the body temperature soars during a heat stroke is that the sweating mechanism—the body's air conditioner—is blocked. Consequently, another symptom is hot, dry skin. The face is red and flushed, the pulse is strong and rapid and the victim is usually unconscious.

Heat stroke is a medical emergency, so the first step in treating a person with heat stroke is to have someone seek medical help immediately. Next, your goal should be to lower the victim's body temperature using any means possible. Undress the victim and apply cold packs or sponge the skin with cool water or rubbing alcohol. Another alternative is to place the victim in a tub of cold water, but do not add ice.

When the body temperature gets down to 100 degrees, put the victim in a bed, wrap him in wet, cold sheets and cool with a fan. Monitor the victim's temperature, and if it begins to rise again, renew the cooling process. Do not give stimulants such as alcohol, coffee or tea to the victim.

Following are tips on how to avoid heat illnesses in the first place:

—Wear loose-fitting, light clothing.

—Drink plenty of fluids, especially when exercising.

—When it is hot and humid, put extra salt on your food, unless it is against doctor's orders.

—Avoid sudden temperature changes. This is a particularly important note for the elderly who are the most common heat victims.

One idea is to bring along a sweater for the occasions when you walk from the hot outdoors into an air-conditioned building. Also, ventilate your car before you get in, so you don't walk straight from a cold office into an oven-like car.

—Keep trim because you generate body heat by carrying added weight.

—A lukewarm shower is more effective than a cold shower.

—Remember, alcohol will make you feel hotter.

Leonard Miller now an Illinois master trooper

Trooper First-Class Leonard J. Miller of the Illinois state police was advanced to the title of master trooper by Captain Glenn H. Huffman, 11th District commander, in ceremonies held at the Maryville headquarters.

The Illinois Department of Law Enforcement has established the classifications of trooper first-class and master trooper under the career path concept for sworn officers. It was implemented on Jan. 2, 1981.

The selection process for advancement is based on troopers' consistent superior performance.

"Officers must continue to perform in a superior manner to retain the advancement," said Capt. Huffman.

Master Trooper Miller is a 23½-year veteran with the state police. He resides in the rural route area of Granite City.

CANDICE LYNN

Miss Lynn earns national honors

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students announced today that Candice Lynn, a member of the First Baptist Church of Mitchell and a student at Granite City High School North, is to be included in its membership for 1981.

The society, one of the most selective high school honor societies in America today, accepts only students nominated by their sponsors. To be nominated, students must excel in academics, extra-curricular, or civic activities.

The student's sponsors, the Rev. and Mrs. Rickie Jones, received a National Appreciation Award from the society for "being dedicated to the encouragement and assistance of students." One of the society's goals is to make membership an encouragement for top performance on the secondary school level.

Unique in concept, the society has combined this honor with its National Awards Program which earmarks college scholarships for society members.

This program, now in its 13 year, is funded by over 100 American colleges. It also preserves the honor by listing the students and their biographies in an annual Membership Registry.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Lynn, 2328 Arnold Drive, the honoree is the assistant Atteens Director at the church and has served as assistant vacation Bible School teacher for the Children's Department, there.

A "religious experience" is not an exclusive realm. An idiot may be considered to be God-possessed due to his affliction which puts him in touch with another world. Reciprocally, the alleged moral body men of barbaric cultures seldom show anything we would call moral superiority over their subjects or neighbors and may appear to have more in common with the idiot than his own people. It is often the simple and ignorant, open to religious impressions, that appear to spend more time than most in God's presence because they share a greater sense of humility.

One's senses and emotions vary when experiencing the loss of dear ones. MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES, through our professional ability and experience, treat each situation with individuality. General Steel Industries, Inc., had net income before tax credit for the three months ended June 30 of $1,915,000, or 50 cents per share of common stock, doubling the company's pre-credit net income of $927,000, or 25 cents per share, in the second quarter last year.

J. A. Van Sant, chairman and president, said Tuesday that net sales and other revenues of the diversified manufacturing company were $34,294,000 in the second quarter this year, a gain of 59 percent over sales of $21,551,000 in the same period in 1980.

The company originated in Granite City.

The tax credit represents tax benefits from losses and expenditures related to discontinued operations.

For the second quarter this year, net income after tax credit totaled $3,218,000, or 85 cents per share, compared with $1,463,000, or 39 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1980.

Earnings per share have been adjusted to reflect a 20 percent stock dividend paid July 13.

GSI's second quarter results raised net income before tax credit for the first half of 1981 to $2,982,000, or 78 cents per share of common stock, compared with $1,982,000, or 53 cents per share, for the first six months of 1980.

Net income after tax credit was $4,881,000, or $1.29 per share, for the first half this year compared with $3,138,000, or 83 cents per share, for the first half of 1980.

Net sales and other revenues for the first half of 1981 were $62,528,000, up 47 percent over first-half 1980 sales of $42,50,000.

"Our strong increase in earnings over the first half of last year was primarily a result of the company's growing participation in the oil and gas field pipecoating and services industry," Van Sant said.

"Standard Pipecoating Division posted a substantial increase in operating income, Guido-Lincoln Corp., another pipecoating company, acquired in January 1981, also added significantly to operating income."

Included in pre-tax income for the second quarter of 1981 is $550,000 received from Pacific Holding Corp. in connection with the sale of its GSI stock holdings during this period. Pursuant to federal regulations, Pacific was required to remit to GSI its profit on General Steel stock purchased within six months of the date of sale.

Strong earnings growth was achieved, Van Sant said, despite an increase of over $600,000 in interest expense in the second quarter.

GSI, which is thought to be the largest U.S. supplier of protective and insulative coatings and services for oil and gas pipelines, will later this summer in a unified pipecoating and energy services division with headquarters in Tulsa, Okla. This division will be GSI's largest source of 1981 sales.

The order backlog at the end of the second quarter was $39,862,000, compared with $25,652,000 on June 30, 1980.

"We expect our favorable earnings progress to continue," Van Sant said. "The markets for several divisions, which were affected by the recession in 1980 and into this year, appear more active, and our energy-related divisions are moving ahead strongly."

GI Bill schooling checklist

For veterans planning to enroll in or return to school this fall under the GI Bill, the Veterans Administration has a checklist to help keep VA education benefits coming regularly:

—Double check your choice of courses to be certain they will count toward your educational objective.

—Register early. VA and your school need time to process your registration so that GI Bill checks can be started your way promptly.

—Avoid dropping classes after registration.

—File for GI Bill benefits as early as possible.

—If you have to interrupt your education, notify VA promptly and advise the date you expect to return to classes.

—If you change addresses, notify VA promptly. Also notify the school and the post office.

—Submit transcripts to the college admissions and records office immediately after application is made. This will speed up the school's certification to the Veterans Administration.

—If you have any questions about the GI Bill or eligibility for it, contact the nearest VA regional office, or a service officer from one of the national veterans organizations.

Steal soda from concession stand. Between 15 and 20 cases of canned soda were taken in a weekend burglary at the Madison Recreation Department's concession stand at the Third Street baseball diamond.

Shortly after the incident was reported, Madison police were told that four or five men were seen loading the soda into a large-size auto.

Entry into the building was gained through a slide-up service window.

Summertime is party time, and it's difficult to overload with party ideas for "Just in case." Here's a tasty and different summer punch which will work well with cold finger foods like cherry tomatoes stuffed with avocado egg salad and assorted fruit and vegetable slices. It's made with four cups of Zinfandel wine, the fruity taste of which will complement one 64-ounce bottle of cranberry juice cocktail (this recipe will serve 32 people in four-ounce servings), which you combine in punchbowl or large pitcher. If going the punchbowl route, pour wine and juice over an ice block. Otherwise, add about six cups of ice cubes to the pitcher. Now the important part: Cover the mixture, and give it a good shake to chill. Just before serving, add one quart of chilled water and one or two sliced lemons.

Learning is the name of the game

By BOB WILLIAMS
Southern Illinois University
Edwardsville

It has been almost a month since I have written; I guess it's sort of a rest from the process. One of the reasons that the break was taken is that I received a grant from the U.S. Department of Conservation to run a youth work program.

This program, called the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC), is the third in the past three years for me at SIUE. Now I'm afraid it will be the last (Reagan's government austerity program), and I am taking this moment to reflect on the kids and what a program like this can mean.

"Living Off The Land," the title of this column, has to me a symbolism that implies that one has the ability to use the land. It means that a person understands the land enough to feel comfortable in its folds and can appreciate some of its characteristics enough, in turn, appreciate the wild for what it is—wild.

The YCC kids I have worked with during the last three summers have, on the whole, come to the work site ignorant of any knowledge of the wild. Most do not know the plants or animals of the woods nor do they know of the natural processes that affect and continuously change the face of the land. They came to this program as most of today's youth, with little formal training in environmental information, although most are aware of the larger issues that face society.

But how does one approach decisions on the large issues of society if one does not know basic information? Oh! I think we do make those decisions and these kids will when the time comes. But I question the basis of any environmental choices made if some environmental knowledge is not present during the decision making.

But the kids come to the YCC to work. And we work on conservation projects. We clear out brush and cut down junk trees. We build trails and identify trees along the trails or fence posts, which bring entertainment and joy to other people. We restore, and we learn to understand the land as we are working.

These kids, many who have never held a job, learn to pace themselves on a hot day. They learn, as early settlers must have, which is the best wood for bridges on the trails or fence posts, which is easiest to cut or nail, and which trees grow the straightest and tallest.

And there is pride in accomplishment—pride at a trail wood-chipped, one wheelbarrow of chips at a time, pride at a finished cabin standing in its place and preserved for another 130 years, and pride at what has been learned in this summer of hard, hot work under sometimes unpleasant conditions.

Poison ivy becomes a respected plant, but now it is known by sight. Snakes have been handled and now hold no fear, only recognition. The trees are friends because we know their names, and the dirt and forest floor have revealed their secrets. Beetles, fish, turtles, and little blue herons all add to the knowledge that accumulates as one works in the wild.

But the summer will soon end. Each of these high school students will have worked and earned $700. But even more, they will have experienced the land. It will be a part of their life from this moment forward. They will, in a smaller sense, have learned to live with the land and will take pride in their accomplishments.

I will be sad to see the YCC program end. It is a valuable way to train our newly emerging young citizens. And it develops our natural resources, making them available to more people. But in its passing, the YCC will continue to live just as the Civilian Conservation Corps lives in the monuments, structures, roads, and buildings it built.

Dystrophy funds sought in area

Multiple Sclerosis volunteers will be calling on area businesses from now through the end of July asking for contributions to aid the 1981 Multiple Sclerosis Campaign, it was announced by Cathy Hemmer, MS Madison County Commerce and Industry chairman.

She noted that the purpose of this campaign is to raise much-needed funds for MS research and local services while at the same time educating area businesses about MS and the effects this chronic illness has on employees, their families, and the community.

Multiple Sclerosis is the most common neurological disease known, often striking unsuspecting adults between the ages of 15 and 50—during prime career and family building years. Though progress has been made through MS research, there is no known cause or cure. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society is the only volunteer health agency conducting worldwide MS research.

For more information about MS or the Commerce and Industry Campaign, call the MS Society at 314-214-8285, or contact Madison County Chairman, Cathy Hemmer, designer and salesperson at Schifferdecker Kitchens, Belleville. Assisting Cathy Hemmer will be: Mike Featherston of Edwardsville National Bank, Edwardsville; Bob Karandjeff of American Heritage Bank, Granite City, and Jo Tweedy, also a chifferdecker's in Belleville.

SCOTT AIR BASE PROJECT. Reserve Staff Sgt. Robert Johnson, Granite City, foreground, joins Reserve Staff Sgt. Donald N. Schutz, Highland, as they take part in the rebuilding of an audio production unit at Scott Air Force Base. They are shown tearing out paneling from an old facility at the base.

Reservists join active Air Force members in rebuilding audio unit

Civilian reservists from Missouri and Illinois communities surrounding Scott Air Force Base joined forces recently with their active-duty counterparts to build and equip a much needed audio production facility.

The joint venture combined elements of the Military Airlift Command's 932nd Aeromedical Airlift Group's (Associate) Reservists and the 375th Aeromedical Airlift Wing's Base Supply and Civil Engineering Squadron.

Also involved were the Air Force Communications Command's 1815th Test Squadron and 1974th Communications Group. These units completed renovation of an old and long-dormant audio production facility.

The new area contains electronic recording equipment which will give MAC AFCC and the base a new way to keep the public informed about Air Force missions and achievements of Air Force people.

Manpower and resources were significant difficulties which prevented the job from being completed in the past. Studies completed in 1977 revealed that expenditures required, even at that time, would have been prohibitive.

MAC and AFCC planners became optimistic when a new study made in late February showed the project just might work. But, there were still some difficult questions to be answered.

Would it be feasible to repair the equipment and reconstruct the facility? Could it be done inexpensively? Who would do the work?

In early March, the 1815th Test Squadron's electronic teams were contacted. They agreed to have their engineers and technicians perform an electronic assessment evaluation on the audio equipment in the facility.

The evaluation report revealed that repair was indeed feasible. The 1815th TS made the necessary repairs.

To make sure the equipment would not deteriorate once the repairs were complete, an agreement was made with the 1974th

Communications Group whereby they will support preventive maintenance and repair of the equipment. Now the question remained of who would do the work.

An active-duty Reserve recruiter with the 932nd AAG suggested that the Reserve civil engineering construction people might be able to do the job.

Reserve Chief Master Sergeant Erwin A. Mueller, the 332nd's structural superintendent, sent a 20-man crew to do a site survey on the Reserve training weekend in April. Reserve training mandays were acquired and the go-ahead was given.

Construction materials were obtained, and civilians from Missouri and Illinois donated their Air Force Reserve uniforms to begin work May 15. Missouri was represented by people from St. Louis, Bridgeton, Ferguson and Fredericktown.

Illinois provided people from Alton, Carbondale, Edwardsville, Belleville, Granite City, Fairview Heights, O'Fallon, Highland, Sauget, Salem, Freeburg and Litchfield.

Active-duty people from the base's civil engineering section and base supply expedited materials procurement.

After completion of the project, Lieutenant General Thomas M. Ryan, MAC vice commander in chief; Major General Robert T. Herres, AFCC commander; and Colonel Bruce M. Purvine, the 375th AAW commander, participated in ribbon-cutting ceremonies to formally open the facility.

Air Force reservists from Missouri and Illinois, with understanding from the civilian employers, have clearly demonstrated that Reserve people are an extremely valuable asset to their nation, say project officials.

Working hand in hand with active-duty forces, the officials added, the reservists have proved America can rely on a dedicated and viable "total force" to serve her needs in peacetime as well as in conflict.

The fatter the cattle, the more they suffer when it's hot. In fact, a combination of high temperatures and humidity prevents cattle from giving off body heat as fast as they produce it.

Heat problems can be reduced by turning cattle out on a shaded pasture rather than keeping them confined in a poorly ventilated lot.

Be sure that salt is available to the cattle along with plenty of water.

If you market finished cattle in hot, humid weather, load them at night or in early morning to avoid trucking them during peak temperatures. In an emergency situation, you may have to hose the cattle down.

Remember that too much cold water can shock an animal's system and cause problems.

During hot weather, cattle eat best at night and early morning. There feed consumption will fall off during hot weather. Regulate their intake then to prevent over eating and foundering.

Charged with disorderly conduct were Robert B. Bladdick, 26, of 2055 Cleveland Blvd., William A. Copeland, 20, of 2210 Missouri Ave., Don T. Vitale, 19, of 2581 Boyle Ave., Linda J. Phillips, 28, of 2120 Adams St., and Leila R. Sutphin, 18, of 2120 Adams St.

Luther E. Parrott, 17, of 2113 Benton St., was charged with disorderly conduct and a curfew violation, as were two youths, one 15 years old and the other 16.

Elms and oaks occasionally die from specific diseases which cause them to die within one year. When this occurs it is important that these trees be removed and burned in a fireplace or brushpile before spring.

Two elm diseases cause the sudden dying of American Elms. Even though the pattern of symptoms is different the result is a dead tree. One of the diseases of elms, (Dutch Elm Disease), is normally spread by beetles that multiply in dead elms. If the dead trees are cut and burned before spring, the beetles are destroyed before they can mature and head for nearby healthy trees. The small twigs should be burned or shredded.

Oaks that die suddenly are probably killed by oak wilt disease. The fungus is spread to nearby healthy trees by insects from dying and dead trees. These trees can be used as firewood if they are burned before spring. Cutting up the wood and storing in wood piles for a year or two is just as dangerous to nearby healthy trees as if it weren't.

Maples, tulip poplars, red buds, catalpas, etc. that die suddenly are often killed by a fungus disease too. But that disease Verticillium Wilt, is not spread by insects, and can be stored in wood piles for more than one year.

United Service Organization is being re-established for metropolitan area

After an absence of some five years from the Metropolitan area when it closed its doors in February 1976, the United Service Organization (USO) is being re-established as an integral and viable element of the community.

The resurgence of the service members "home away from home" came into full bloom when the U.S. Army Troop Support and Aviation Materiel Readiness Command (TSARCUM), 4300 Goodfellow Blvd., was requested to assist in the re-establishment of a USO in St. Louis. The request came in a letter from Major General Robert M. Elton, Commander U.S. Army Military Personnel Center at Alexandria, Va., addressed to Major General Emil L. Konopnicki, TSARCUM Commander.

In his letter, Gen. Elton cited the support and cooperation received in opening the Military Personnel and Transportation Assistance Office at the St. Louis International Airport. Gen. Elton said that even with the wide range of support that TSARCUM will be providing, the passengers' access to military facilities and services will be somewhat limited.

He explained that a USO lounge located at or near the terminal would offset this void and provide a place for the service members and their families to relax prior to a long journey overseas.

Aware of the value of a USO to the military and civilian community, Gen. Konopnicki quickly became involved in the project. He appointed Brig. Gen. James M. Hesson, TSARCUM Deputy Commander, Lt. Col. Chester D. Tutor, Commander, St. Louis Area Support Center (SLASC) at Granite City, Ill., and Rex Pyle, a community service coordinator, to coordinate the efforts with other military installations and local civic and business organizations in re-establishing a USO.

After meetings involving TSARCUM, U.S. Army Research and Development Command (AVRDCOM), SLASC, Military Airfield Command (MAC) at Scott Air Force Base, U.S. Army Reserve Components Airfield Command (AVRDCOM), Personnel Administration Center, Fort Leonard Wood, the Federal Reserve Board, Regional Commerce and Growth Association, Airport Commission, Midway Aviation, McDonnell Douglas Radio-Tiding, KMOX and others, a plan was agreed upon and the "go ahead" sign went up.

Construction was soon begun on 23,000 square feet of space donated by the City of St. Louis. The site is located on the airport's lower level near the Number One Baggage carousel. The lounge is scheduled to be ready for use by August 1, but the official opening ceremony will be held later in August.

The USO lounge, designed by Sverdrup and Parcel and Associates, Inc., is being constructed by C. Rallo Contracting Co., and J. S. Alberici Construction Co., Inc. The building will have two lounges, one of which will contain a reception desk, director's office, lounge area, a 12 to 14 foot soft drink bar, an area with tables and chairs for eating or playing games such as cards, checkers, chess and the like, and a baggage storage space.

Another lounge will be for reading or watching TV and have a library, color TV sets and a kitchen area. A separate facility adjacent to the USO lounge is designed for the convenience of mothers where they can tend to the needs of their children.

The cost of the USO lounge is estimated at $50,000 to $60,000. This money has already been advanced by a local businessman with the stipulation that it can be repaid when convenient.

A fund-raising drive will be conducted by an official of McDonnell Douglas Corp., to acquire $500,000 which will be used to pay the interest on a bearing escrow account. The interest will be used to operate the USO lounge. Approximately $60,000 worth of furniture and equipment has been donated and is awaiting completion of the facility.

The lounge will be open from 10 a.m. to midnight. However, it can and will be open 24 hours per day if such a need arises. It will be operated by a board of directors, one of whom will be on duty full time and will be the director. The director will be assisted by a staff of volunteers. It is estimated that a minimum of 100 volunteers will be needed to operate the USO. The volunteers must be at least 18 years of age and man and wife teams are being sought.

Q. Having just received a small inheritance, I would like to make some sort of relatively safe, return investment. I'm currently undecided between a Certificate of Deposit and money market funds. Are there advantages in a CD of which I should be aware?
A. The key word you mentioned was "safe". One of the most important advantages in a Certificate of Deposit is since you are purchasing the CD through a bank, both your principle and interest are insured through Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Money market funds, not purchased through a bank cannot carry this protection for your investment. Certificates of Deposit will assure you a safe investment with a good, consistent return. Your banker is a good source of advice regarding present and future financial plans.

Smith now profitable

Second-quarter sales of A. O. Smith Corporation increased 41 percent over a year ago, leading the company to a profitable third month compared with a loss in the depressed second quarter of 1980.

In the first six months of 1981, the company also reported a profit compared with a loss in 1980, with sales up 20 percent from a year ago. The firm formerly operated an auto frame plant in Granite City.

L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, said that even though the second quarter and first half showed good improvement over 1980, profitability is still at unsatisfactory level.

"We" continue to be plagued by recessionary factors in several key markets and this has caused intense competitive situations which affect margins," Smith said.

"Unfortunately, we currently foresee a continuation of these economic difficulties in our housing, auto and livestock equipment markets."

In the second quarter, the company had sales of $232,298,000 and earnings of $5,353,000, or $1.10 per share, compared with sales a year ago of $164,375,000, and a loss of $4,450,000 or 91 cents per share.

For the first half of 1981, A. O. Smith had sales of $437,407,000 and profits of $8,601,000 or $1.76 per share, compared with 1980 first-half sales of $365,277,000 with a loss of $2,083,000 or 43 cents per share.

The volume gains and profit improvement came primarily in automotive structural parts and electric motors, Smith said. He pointed out, however, that the first two quarters of 1980 were "very depressed periods."

Automotive division volume in the second quarter of last year was also seriously reduced by a lengthy strike here. Both electric motor operating units have experienced strong customer demand in the first half of the year. Customers for motors used in air conditioning, refrigeration and water pumping systems are rebuilding their inventories.

Also reporting improved results for both the six months and second quarter was AgriStar Credit Corp., finance subsidiary which continues to expand its livestock feed storage equipment leasing program.

High interest rates have hurt sales at A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, a subsidiary which manufactures livestock feeding equipment. And reduced housing starts have affected sales of water heating equipment.

Hoppy Group's potluck dinner
Thirty-three members of the Hoppy Group senior club met last week at the Granite City Township Center, 2060 Delmar Ave., for a potluck dinner.

Members provided covered dish food items and desserts and beverages also were served.

After the meal, various games were played. Among those receiving prizes were Earl and Erma Marti and Joe Graklanoff.

The group scheduled its next business meeting for 1:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 6, at the township building.

Schermer, 4049 Sarc, both of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club; Elmer Wortham, 2585 Boyle, of the Granite City Lions Club; and Richard Bright, 845 Alton Ave., of the Madison Lions Club, will assume their new positions on the Illinois Lions District I-G Cabinet at a special meeting to be held in Jacksonville, on Sunday.

Patrick was elected to the office of lieutenant governor at the District I-G Convention held in Carlinville last April.

Wortham has been appointed to the office of zone chairman of Region 4, Zone 3 in the district which includes the Granite City, Madison, Pontoon Beach and Edwardsville Lions Clubs.

Schermer has been appointed as the district's vision and activities coordinator and Bright as the district's Leo Club chairman.

Wortham, Schermer and Bright received their appointments from newly-elected District I-G Governor Walter Potts of the Camp Point Lions Club. Lt. Governor Patrick recommended the appointments of the local Lions to the new governor.

At the district's convention last April, Schermer made the nominating speech for Patrick with Wortham and Bright giving seconding speeches.

The district cabinet serves as the governing body of District I-G, which covers 12 southwestern Illinois counties with 48 Lions Clubs and 2,300 members. The cabinet consists of a district governor, lieutenant governor, four deputy district governors, a secretary-treasurer, 10 zone chairmen and 25 committee chairmen. The cabinet meets quarterly, or when a special meeting is called by the governor at different locations throughout the district.

The first regularly scheduled meeting of the 1981-82 cabinet will be held in Pontoon Beach on Sunday, Aug. 30, at the Lions Den II. The Pontoon Beach Lions and Lionsess Clubs will serve as hosts along with Deputy District Governor Clay Brethorn of the Edwardsville Lions Club.

Patrick, 33, served on the district cabinet three years before being elected lieutenant governor. He served two years as zone chairman of Region 4, Zone 3, and one year as deputy district governor of Region 4. Patrick is a charter member of the Pontoon Beach Club and was elected the club's third president in 1976. He has also held the offices of director, treasurer, secretary, vice-president and immediate past president.

In reward of his past leadership and service, he was appointed as the club's first salaried officer, executive secretary-treasurer, in 1979.

He became the first member from the Pontoon Beach Club to be appointed to the cabinet in 1978.

Patrick has maintained five straight years of perfect attendance and is a holder of the Lions International Key Award and has earned three Lions International Perfect Attendance Pins.

"Lion of the Year" in 1978

during the club's 5th Anniversary Celebration Night.

Wortham, 32, is a vice-president and auditor at First Granite City National Bank. He will be serving his first term on the cabinet and be the first member of the Granite City Club to receive appointment to the cabinet level.

Wortham was a charter member of the Granite City Club and was elected the club's fourth president in 1980. He has also held club offices of secretary, treasurer and vice-president. He will serve on the club's board of directors this year as the immediate past president.

Wortham has qualified and application currently submitted, for the Lions International 100 Percent President's Award. He has earned three Lions International Perfect Attendance Pins.

As zone chairman, Wortham will give audience and advice to the clubs in his zone. He will preside at all zone meetings and report to the governor on the condition and status of the clubs in his zone.

Wortham and his wife, Janis, have two children, Jennifer 7 and Brian 3.

Schermer, 25, joined the Pontoon Beach Club in 1976 and was elected the club's seventh president in 1980. He has also held club offices of secretary, vice-president and is currently serving as immediate past president.

Schermer is a holder of the Lions International Key Award and has earned three Lions International Perfect Attendance Pins.

Schermer, owner and operator of the Schermer's Market in Madison, will become the third Pontoon Beach member to be appointed to the cabinet level. He will be serving his first term on the cabinet.

As vision and activities coordinator, he will be responsible for regulating and coordinating vision activities in the district in such areas as the Lions mobile glaucoma unit, used eyeglasses and eye donor registry.

Schermer and his wife, Linda, have two children, Amanda 3 and Katie 16 months.

Mrs. Schermer is the newly elected president of the Pontoon Beach Lionsess Club.

Bright, 36, is a chemistry teacher and athletic director at Dupu High School. He was elected vice-president of the Madison Lions Club in 1975 and president in 1976. He has been serving as the club secretary since 1977.

Bright, who will be serving his second year as the district's Leo Club chairman, will be responsible for promoting and assisting the clubs in the district in sponsoring Leo Clubs.

The Leo Club program offers opportunities for young boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 19 to become involved in the activities of Lionism by forming their own clubs, with the guidance of a sponsoring Lions Club.

His wife, Linda, is employed as a secretary with the Consolidated Aluminum Company in Madison. They have one son, John, who is 11 years old.

"Fifty companies have a higher complaint ratio than for 1979."

"Inflation and more consumer awareness about insurance products are the most likely causes for the 1980 increases," he said.

"There are 115 life, accident and health complaint ratios listed for 1980. In total, there were 400 companies with life, accident and health complaints filed against them during that period."

"When you consider that the ratio group accounts for little more than 25 percent of all insurers with these types of complaints, it is surprising that more companies do not appear on the list."

"The other side of the coin is that, although economic conditions favor more consumer complaints, strong enforcement of existing laws and close regulatory attention to problem areas have minimized complaint activity."

As in 1979, the Department of Insurance has not made the subjective determination as to whether or not any of the complaints were justified.

"The complaint ratios are offered solely to give consumers an additional avenue for selecting an insurer or evaluating their present companies," O'Connor said.

"Although the ratios are indicative of a company's performance, they must be kept in their proper perspective. There are many other factors to consider as well."

"What is more significant is that 42 new companies are on the 1980 listing, a 63 percent increase in one number with 10 or more complaints."

Switching your life insurance can be costly, hearings show

The 1980 consumer complaint ratios for life, accident and health insurance were released Monday as the Illinois Department of Insurance opened week-long public hearings concerning issues raised by switching life insurance policies.

Philip R. O'Connor, state insurance director, opened the hearings and said the purpose for conducting them was "to explore problems involving replacement of life insurance policies. This tops the list of all life insurance complaints received by the Insurance Department."

The public hearings were ordered by O'Connor, who also appointed an in-house task force to determine if consumers are adequately informed about the financial consequences of switching whole life to modified life policies.

"Modified premium policies usually have 10-year maturities, and a large premium deposit for the first year. The following yearly premiums are each about one-third the amount required for the first year," explained O'Connor.

"What we want to determine is if the amount are adequately informed about the financial consequences to switching from whole life to modified life policies."

"We want to know if insureds are told what the cash values of deposit term life insurance policies will be at the end of their terms."

Cahokia-Dupo families return to homes after leak in acid tank car

Residents in the Cahokia-Dupo area returned to their homes Monday morning after an early-morning evacuation of the area because a tank car in the Dupo rail yards was found to be leaking nitric acid.

An estimated 2,500 residents in the two small communities were alerted about 3 a.m. Monday shortly after a railroad worker discovered the leak in a tank car destined for the Monsanto Chemical Co.

The leak apparently was caused by a faulty valve on a Missouri-Pacific tank car that was enroute from the Monsanto plant in El Dorado, Ark., to the William Krummrich plant at Monsanto in Sauget.

While fumes were obvious, no one was injured and no one was hospitalized. There was no danger of fire as nitric acid is non-flammable. Approximately 1,500 persons were evacuated from Southern Subdivision in Cahokia and between 700 and 1,000 left their homes temporarily in Dupo.

Traffic bound for Illinois was backed up during the early hours on Interstates 55 and 270 into St. Louis because of the evacuation.

A crew from Monsanto finished replacing the broken valve about 9 a.m. Monday and the leaking acid was closed off about 9:30 a.m. Families began moving back into their homes shortly afterward.

Madison business makes meals for thousands

More than 100,000 sandwiches and other food products are supplied to outlets in the St. Louis area each week by an inconspicuous food services company located in the Stephen Maeras Industrial Park in Madison.

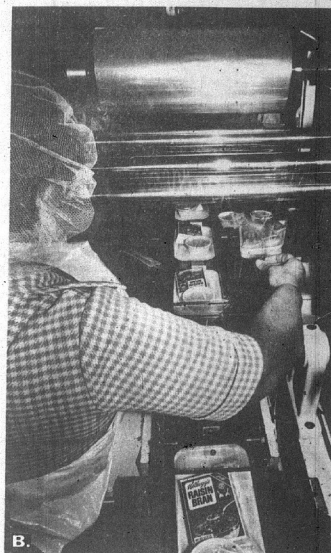

The company is Open Kitchens Inc., which supplies vending companies, convenience stores, taverns and other outlets with such items as sandwiches — including Italian beef, barbecue beef, hamburgers, ham and chicken salad, to name a few — in addition to dessert items and breakfast and lunch meals for several federal government programs throughout the year.

Open Kitchens is presently supplying the St. Clair County EOC daily meal program and a similar U.S. Department of Agriculture program in the city of St. Louis. The local business supplies both programs with breakfast and lunch meals which are distributed to underprivileged children at 170 sites during the eight-week programs.

Breakfasts consist of cereal, milk and fruit and the lunches also are prepared with nutritious foods to supplement the regular diet of the youngsters. Approximately 10,000 breakfast and lunch meals are prepared at Open Kitchens each day for the programs.

The company also provides meals for the St. Louis Board of Education breakfast program and ala carte items which supplement the regular lunch program throughout the school system during the school year.

Gene Lucci, general manager of the food services company, stresses that the business hires as many of its employees from Madison and the surrounding communities when possible and said that more than 50 extra employees have been hired for the summer to help the regular workforce with the preparation of meals for the summer programs.

Earl's reopening after July 15 fire

GINGER BOOKER will sing at the MDA talent show Friday. Ginger is known in this area for her voice. The show is to be presented in South High School auditorium at 7 p.m.

Earl Harris, owner of Earl's sporting goods store at Cleveland Boulevard and Niedringhaus Avenue, 3875 Nameoki Road, and in Fairview Heights, Ill., announced yesterday that the downtown Granite City store, damaged by fire July 15, will reopen early next week.

Granite City Fire Department investigators believe the fire was accidental, possibly from a cigarette left on a rear shelf, and have ruled out arson as a cause.

Harris said yesterday, "I would like to express my personal thanks to the friends who helped me, especially the Granite City Fire Department for its quick response and ability to contain the fire within the stock room area.

"I hope to open the store the first of next week and must dispose of all the smoke and fire damaged merchandise," Harris concluded.

He said there was smoke damage throughout the store, although the flames did not leave the stock room, which contained merchandise for all three Earl's stores.

Starting off the benefit will be the popular and well known contemporary group "Makin' It".

Mrs. Deloris Hay the general chairman of the show said, "I think we have a program lined up that will please everyone. These fine acts and our sponsors can not be thanked enough and I do hope everyone will attend this talented variety show."

All proceeds are for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Keeping healthy

By MARY RICHARDS

Everything looks and sounds "right" to a small child. Children can't tell you that something is wrong with their vision or hearing because they don't know that these faculties are not as keen as those of their playmates. Every parent should know and be alert to the simple signs that may indicate their child is having vision or hearing problems.

There are some signs you can't miss, such as excessive blinking, rubbing eyes frequently, tilting the head to one side, stumbling over small objects or holding a book close to the eyes.

Sometimes the child will cover one eye so he can see better.

Sometimes a child's teacher is the first to detect vision problems. If a student has difficulty in keeping his or her place while reading or uses a finger to keep his or her place, or if the child shows little interest in school activities which require critical seeing, the teacher should suspect the possibility of vision impairment.

The appearance of your child's eyes can also be a clue to poor vision. An obvious sign is an eye, or sometimes both, that crosses. You should also look for different sized pupils or eyes. And drooping or swollen eyelids may also be indicative of eye problems.

Frequently, a child's complaints are the first warning a parent has that something is wrong. Anytime your child tells you that his or her vision blurs or head aches while reading, or she can't see the board, or he has to have his or her eyes examined as soon as possible.

Other tell-tale signs of trouble are double vision, complaints of words moving or jumping when reading. Teachers should be alert for complaints of not being able to see the chalkboard. An eye problem that follows a blow to the head should be brought to the attention of the school nurse or a physician immediately.

Since 1970, the state health department's Vision and Hearing Screening Program has trained about 2500 persons, such as school nurses and personnel from full-time local health departments, who were already actively involved in preschool and school children screening. These people conduct approximately 3 million vision and hearing screenings of Illinois school-age children a year including approximately 150,000 preschool children.

It has been estimated that 92 percent of vision defects could be treated if they were discovered early enough. If your child has a vision screening and you are advised to take the child to an eye doctor, the state health department urges you to do so.

If you have any questions about signs that might indicate that your child's eyes are not functioning properly, contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Health Promotion and Screening, Vision and Hearing Screening Program, West Jefferson, Springfield, Ill. 62761.

'81 Illini Girl Staters

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Three local girls were selected to attend the 41st annual Illini Girl's State program, sponsored by the Illinois Department of the American Legion Auxiliary and held in Jacksonville, Ill.

Participating in the weeklong activity from Granite City were Jeanne Trimmer and Darlene Kaempf. Tracy Champion represented Madison High School.

A fourth young woman, Lesilee McIntyre of Granite City, who was a high school representative previously, returned to Girl's State this year as a counselor.

Miss Dorothy Hinson of Madison, a teacher at Coolidge Junior High School and a past president of Venice-Madison American Legion Auxiliary 307, served as director of the 1981 Girl's State program. Mrs. Lumeta Durbin, a past president of Tri-City American Legion Auxiliary 113, serves as Girl's State chairman for the Granite City post.

The purpose of Girl's State is to provide citizenship training by living and working in a civical state, patterned on the State of Illinois governmental bodies as closely as possible, Mrs. Durbin explained.

More than 570 young women attended the 1981 project on the campus of MacMurray College in Jacksonville.

The girls were afforded an opportunity to live together as self governing citizens and to learn "by doing" the duties and responsibilities, as well as the rights and privileges of American Citizenship.

The "government in action" program is geared to girls who have completed their junior year of high school.

It is designed to provide the young women a better understanding of the functioning of government through direct participation in its many aspects, Mrs. Durbin noted.

Participants form two political parties, live in separate "cities" and organize campaigns and hold conventions and caucuses.

They elect city, county and state officials and perform duties pertaining to various public offices. Representatives and senators to serve in a General Assembly also are elected and then convene to write bills and resolutions.

laws, balloting, petitioning and campaigning, the girls receive instruction in parliamentary procedure and Americanism, Miss Hinson said.

Those taking part visited the Capitol Building in Springfield and talked with some of the elected officials. They also toured the area of Lincoln's Tomb.

Tracy Champion is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack "Bud" (Caroline) Champion, 1219 Washington Ave., Madison.

At Madison High School, she is president of the National Honor Society, editor of the yearbook, president of the Junior Class and a member of the Madison High Student Council, Foreign Language Club, Radiation Team, varsity volleyball team, pom squad, academic team, Future Secretaries of America and in the cast of the school production, "The Curious Savage."

Jeanne Trimmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Trimmer, 10 Lenox Ave., is a student at Granite City High School.

Upon their return, the participants will present reports and offer their impressions on the project to their sponsoring American Legion Auxiliary units, Mrs. Durbin advised.

Girls are burned in fire on boat

Two 13-year-old girls, Granite City High School North students, are recuperating at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after suffering burns when the engine of their inboard-outboard boat exploded Saturday at Carlyle Lake.

Burned were Tracy Lynn Morris, 2549 Westmoreland Drive, and Leslie Tindall, 64 University Drive, Mitchell. They were in the Tindall family's boat with a family friend during the H.H. Hall Construction Co. picnic and had just left the no wake area of the harbor when the engine in the rear of the boat exploded sending flames along the deck.

Leslie suffered burns to the back of her legs and her arms, but was able to jump overboard soon after the explosion.

Tracy told the Press-Record, "There was fire all around and I couldn't jump through it. I tried to get to the bow of the boat, but I fell over the seat and my back was getting burned."

"I got up and jumped out and we were picked up by some people on a sailboat who threw something to us to float on, then pulled us on board and took us to the dock, where two nurses who were having a picnic covered us in ice until an ambulance arrived," Tracy recalled. She suffered burns to the front of her legs and to her back. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Breese where they were treated in the emergency room and kept overnight Saturday.

Sunday afternoon, they were transferred to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where they underwent surgery Monday and Wednesday to remove burned skin.

"They put you out so you don't feel anything, but it stings afterwards," Tracy said.

She said she and Leslie are in room 417 at St. Elizabeth and may have visitors. Friends also may call them at 788-3417.

Cleans cemetery for Eagle Scout project

The Six Mile Odd Fellows Cemetery, Illinois Route 3, was cleaned by Eric Wilson, 16, of Boy Scout Troop 5, as his Eagle Scout service project.

Eric is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Wilson and a student at Granite City High School South.

The cemetery was cleared of overgrown trees, tall grass, weeds, and trash which took a number of days to complete. When the clearing was finished, Mrs. Darlene Kahn of the Old Six Mile Historical Society, along with the aid of Margaret Burns and Lillie Barber, was able to complete a list of those grave markers still readable.

The list will eventually be ready for the Odd Fellows organization, the Granite City Library and the following genealogical libraries: National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, Washington, D.C.; Newberry, Chicago; Illinois State in Springfield; DAR section in Centralia, Ill.; and Madison County Historical Society.

Director of guardianship commission resigns office

Sandra G. Nye, first director of the two-year-old Illinois Guardianship and Advocacy Commission, has announced her resignation, effective Aug. 31. The agency, which is overseen by nine commissioners who are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate, was created as part of a major mental health law reform sponsored in 1978 by State's Attorney Richard M. Daley, then a State Senator. She is an attorney and master degree social worker, is a nationally-recognized expert in health and social service law. She was a primary participant in the development of the Illinois Mental Health Code and Confidentiality Act and has been active in family and juvenile law.

"Director Nye's resignation is being accepted with great regret," said Mrs. Mary Chase Pell, Evanston, chairperson of the Commission. "Selected as the first director from 300 applicants in a six-month nationwide search when the Commission was appointed, she has served with distinction. She has developed 10 offices across the state providing legal advocacy and guardianship services to mentally and developmentally handicapped persons. Nine Human Rights Authorities with 61 members have also been established to investigate allegations of patients' rights violations," said Mrs. Pell, who added, "In the past 12 months, under Director Nye's leadership, the agency has served over 7,000 persons."

"The past two years have been rewarding and exciting for me personally as the agency has taken form and as I could see that people in desperate need were being helped," Nye said. "I came into state service to create the agency because I believed in its mission. Now that the agency is a functioning reality, I feel I can return to the private sector. The commissioners are wonderful, dedicated people. It has been a privilege to work with them. I am very proud of what we have accomplished."

"A search for a new director will begin at once," Mrs. Pell said. The personnel committee conducting the search will include commissioners A. Gerald Erickson, executive director of United Charities of Metropolitan Chicago, and

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hayes

Hayes-Fithen

Miss Barbara M. Fithen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Fithen 3035 Circle Drive, and Gary J. Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, 421 McBride, Duplo, Ill., exchanged wedding vows in an evening ceremony on June 5 at the Jewel Box in St. Louis.

The Rev. Austin Fisher officiated at the double ring service at 7 o'clock.

For her wedding, the former Miss Fithen selected a full length white old fashioned style gown of chiffon over satin fashioned with an empire bodice of Italian lace, high neckline and long sleeves.

A wide border of matching lace enhanced the hemline and softly flowing train. She wore an Italian lace headpiece, embellished with pearls, to secure her triple tiered veil. Her bouquet was made up of apricot and white roses intermingled with lily of the valley and tied with matching streamers.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Paula Long, was gowned in a long beige dress and held a matching floral arrangement.

The bridesmaids Mrs. Karen Partain, Marcia Brown and Miss Kathy Fithen, a sister of the bride, selected apricot color gowns. Their bouquets also matched their attire.

Kimberly Hotz served as the flower girl. She wore an apricot chiffon frock with ruffle sleeves and gathered flounce at the hemline and she also held a bouquet of apricot blossoms.

The groom chose Ron Schonowels as best man. Groomsmen and ushers included Doug Partain, Earl Middleton and Chuck Keys. Bobby Fithen, a brother of the bride, was the ringbearer.

A reception was held at the VFW Post after the ceremony.

The bride is employed as an audit clerk for C.P.I. in St. Louis. Her husband works as an assistant dispatcher for Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, Venice. They are residing in Granite City following a wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wondra

Wondra-Medley

The wedding of Miss Terri Medley and Harold Wondra was solemnized in an early afternoon ceremony on June 27 at the Church of God, 1205 W. Pontoon Road.

Parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Medley, resided at 1200 W. Pontoon Road. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wondra, 640 Ashland Ave., Mitchell.

The Rev. O. J. Cloninger officiated at the double ring service at 1 o'clock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, oval neckline and full length sheer bishop sleeves, accented with Venice lace.

Her slightly full skirt extended into a chapel train. She wore a lace bordered mantilla style veil of bridal illusion held in place by a lace and pearl headpiece. Her bouquet was an arrangement of white roses, yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Honor attendant, Jackie Kirkover, chose a floor length dress featuring violet lace sleeves, and the bridesmaid, Donna Zeugin, selected a similar gown with green lace sleeves.

Both carried bouquets of white carnations with yellow daisies and greenery.

Tina and Dale Medley, a sister and brother of the bride, served as flower girl and ringbearer.

She was dressed in an ivory full length frock with long sleeves, and she held a basket of pink roses, yellow daisies, pink violets and lily of the valley.

The groom chose Bobby Kirkover as best man and Eddy Lee as the groomsmen. Keith Shuppert and Gordon Meyers seated the guests.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Medley residence.

The bride is attending South High School and will graduate in June 1982, and the groom is employed with Chouteau Township Highway Dept. He also is a member of the Mitchell Volunteer Fire Department.

They are residing in Mitchell following a wedding trip to Gray Summit, Mo.

Burning tapers in branch candelabra illuminated the sanctuary for the double ring ceremony performed at 7 p.m. by the Rev. Braman. Guitarist Nancy Voo played and sang, "If," "Evergreen," "The Rose," "Annie's Song," "Twelfth of Never," and "Time in a Bottle."

The bride wore a full length white sate mist gown designed with a Queen Anne neckline, molded bodice and long bishop sleeves, accented with reemboiled lace motifs. Lace appliques enhanced the skirt and the ruffle flounce which encircled the hemline and carried train.

Her lace trimmed fingertip veil of bridal illusion was held in place with a lace headpiece and she carried a colonial bouquet of blue silk Sweetheart roses with baby's breath and white carnations.

Attending the bride were her sisters, Mrs. Rhonda Cowin, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Pam Bettorf and Miss Gina Hamilton, as bridesmaids.

They were gowned in pastel blue chiffon dresses and each held a bouquet of blue Sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The junior bridesmaid, Veronica Hamilton, another sister of the bride, selected a white satin frock with a lace bodice. Her floral arrangement was identical to the bridal bouquet.

Stephen Dahl served as best man. Richard and Kevin Pruett, brothers of the groom, Darrell Hamilton Jr., the bride's brother and Randy Kamp, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall, 1825 State St., after the service and the rehearsal dinner was hosted at the Hamilton residence.

How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1—Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2—Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3—Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4—Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5—For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6—Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7—By law, economy sizes of non-food items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8—Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9—Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10—Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

GRANITE CITY GIRL SCOUT TROOP 328

on the steps of the Juliette Gordon Low Girl Scout National Center in Savannah, Ga., where they visited earlier this month. The troop members planned the excursion for 10 months, and also visited Chattanooga, Tenn., Stone Mountain Park, near Atlanta, and Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Diane Kinder, leader, is shown with Girl Scouts Rhonda Allen, Kris Bausch, Jennifer Benoit, Sherri Crown, Teresa David, Karrie Krazar, Ragina Herrin, Lisa Jackson, Jill Kinder, Cheryl Lenzi, Chris Loyet, Evelyn Miles, Rhonda Niederkorn, Diane Oliver, Michelle Rheinhardt, Colleen Ryan, Pam Smith, Melissa Stinson, Cheryl Swift, Anne Voyles and Beverly Wallace. The Regency townhouse, where Juliette Gordon (Daisy) Low was born on Oct. 31, 1860, was purchased by Girl Scouts of the USA in 1953 and restored to reflect the period of Daisy's girlhood. The house was designated a National Historic landmark by the U.S. Department of the Interior in 1965. Also accompanying the troop was Mrs. Doris Oliver and Phyllis and Hugh Allen. Mr. Allen served as the bus driver for the trip.

Local group to play Plantation

While most people have been planning vacations and doing all types of summer chores around the house, a group of Granite City people have been hard at work preparing for their big night, Thursday, July 30, at the Plantation Dinner Theater. The group call themselves, "The New Life Singers." The production they are doing is a musical by Ron Harris entitled, "Special Delivery." The group is formed of persons from a wide range of backgrounds: a clerk, a business woman, a nurse, teachers, blue collar workers and homemakers, fourteen in all.

The director, Carolyn Jenkins, commented that the Plantation Dinner Theater is an opportunity for the group. Director Jenkins said, "Members of the company have performed at the St. Louis Municipal Opera, on television, Concert Choirs, and theater production." She added that while the entire group has had stage experience, singing this musical will be the first dramatic roll for some of the cast.

The musical, "Special Delivery," is based around a series of letters written by people in everyday life situations and filled with contemporary music. Miss Jenkins has had the actors compose many of the letters from their own real life situations which adds an extra touch to an already unique play.

A member of the cast added, "It's our hope that after seeing the performance people will be encouraged knowing that they aren't alone in their struggles." What is so unusual about this production is that it is being given for the price of the meal only.

With the help of the First Assembly of God Church in Granite City, and the cooperation of the Plantation Dinner Theater, the New Life Singers are presenting "Special Delivery." It is for one night only.

Tickets are $8, $9, and $10 and are available at several locations: Day Spring Bookstores and Hudson's Jewelry, both in Granite City; Zondervan Family Bookstore in Jamestown Mall; Plantation Dinner Theater, or by phone (618) 877-3430 (314) 869-9400.

Floor hockey set won by Parkview

Three Madison County schools are winners of prizes in the Jump Rope for Heart program sponsored last spring by the Illinois Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (IAHPER) for the benefit of the Heart Association.

Gilson Brown Elementary in Godfrey was the winner of tumbling mats and Parkview Elementary School in Edwardsville won a floor hockey set with goals. Metro East Lutheran High School in Edwardsville has won parallel bars and a 50-foot mat.

Twenty-five of the nearly 200 participating Illinois schools won prizes in the national event. Prizes to the schools were awarded on the basis of enrollment, the number of students participating, and the amount of money raised.

Gilson Brown raised $5,953, Parkview $3,471 and Lutheran High, $2,357. Rope jumping was held between March 16 and April 2, conducted by school physical education teachers and students who organized the competition.

Members of six-student teams each jumps rope, relieving each other when tiring, for a maximum of three hours.

Cash pledges collected from sponsors for each minute of their rope jumping efforts are applied to Heart Association programs of research. Goal is to find better means of diagnosing and treating heart and blood vessel diseases.

Public and professional education and community service projects, such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation training and blood pressure screening, also are aided.

For the first time in the history of the three-year-old event, schools were eligible for prizes. Students have won prizes for the entire three years, including T-shirts, jackets and warm-up suits.

IAHPER is a voluntary educational organization of health and physical education teachers, coaches and athletic directors, and personnel in safety and recreation.

March is National Physical Education and Sports Month, and the event was endorsed by the Governor's Council on Health and Fitness.

By encouraging participation of youths, the event seeks to promote the Heart Association's message of the lifelong benefits of regular physical exercise — and to demonstrate how teamwork can be used to reach a common goal as students and teachers work together.

Chromalloy earnings up

Chromalloy American Corporation reported second-quarter net earnings Tuesday of $11,787,000, or 74 cents per share, up 8.3 percent from the net earnings in last year's second quarter of $10,880,000, or 70 cents per share.

On a fully diluted basis, earnings per share were 65 cents in the second quarter this year compared with 61 cents in the same period in 1980.

The firm owns the precast metals plant in Granite City. Net sales and operating revenues were $94,711,000 for the three months ended June 30, down 10.7 percent from sales of $362,579,000 in the year-ago quarter.

Chromalloy's 1980 second quarter result, against which this year's second quarter is measured, included $59,549,000 in sales and $4,213,000 in operating earnings of businesses sold since that period under the company's divestiture and asset redeployment program.

Frank P. Nykil, president and chief executive officer, said the company's second quarter showing reflected strong gains by the more profitable core businesses around which Chromalloy is being restructured for improved results in the emerging business environment of the 1980s.

Operating earnings of the continuing businesses in Chromalloy's metal fabrication, transportation and petroleum services segments, where most of the core businesses are concentrated, increased $5,371,000 or 23.8 percent this second quarter over a year ago, even through revenues from the company's strong barge line operations did not show as much improvement as expected because of traffic lost during the coal strike.

These gains cushioned the adverse impact of recession on some of Chromalloy's other markets, and of an operating loss incurred by businesses which supply the Midwest market for farm equipment.

Net difference between the second quarter operating loss this year and operating earnings a year ago was $3.6 million.

A number of non-operating factors influenced the second quarter earnings comparisons.

On the positive side, 1981 second quarter earnings benefited substantially from larger investment tax credits created by the company's record capital expenditures for its core businesses.

Also, there was a $2.2 million reduction in interest payments, as against the second quarter last year, because of debt retired with proceeds from the first quarter 1981 sale of seven businesses.

Factors which impacted the earnings comparisons adversely were a net foreign currency exchange loss of $1.5 million in translating the financial statements of European businesses from local currency to the now stronger U.S. dollar, as against a currency exchange gain of $300,000 in the second quarter last year.

There was a net difference of $900,000 between a loss in this year's second quarter on the disposal of businesses, and a gain in the second quarter of 1980.

Chromalloy's second quarter results brought first-half net earnings to $20,189,000, or $1.25 per share of common stock, up 6.7 percent over earnings of $18,927,000 or $1.19 per share.

Chromalloy is a multi-industry business which produces and sells a broad range of products and services. The company had sales of $1.5 billion in 1981 and net earnings of $44.4 million.

DISORDERLY CHARGE

Responding to a call of a disturbance taking place outside the Wayside Tavern, 2160 Washington Ave., at 3:25 a.m. Saturday, officers found a group of people acting loud and boisterous and arrested Mark L. Wingerter, 20, of 3005 Kirkpatrick homes, who allegedly refused to leave or get into a squad car.

RECOGNIZE DONATIONS. President of Granite City Steel, Division of National Steel, James V. Stack, Sister Mary Thomas, president, and Mitch Milonski, member of the Board of Directors of St. Elizabeth Medical Center posed beneath the plaque acknowledging the contribution of Granite City Steel to the Medical Center. Granite City Steel has donated $150,000 to the Medical Center within the past three years. The money has been used to purchase capital equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. David Morris

Morris-Stephens

The wedding of Miss Jamie Marie Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stephens, 1712 Venice Ave., and David B. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Morris, 33 Timbercreek, Yorkville, Ill., was solemnized on June 6 at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Madison.

Prior to the service Marilyn Chauscelo accompanied Bill Patterson as he sang, "The Wedding Song," "Sunrise, Sunset," "The Rose," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The Rev. Conrad Motola officiated at the double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon followed by a garden reception held at the home of the bride's parents.

For her wedding, the former Miss Stephens selected a white gown fashioned with a molded bodice featuring a point de espre lace yoke and sleeves, trimmed with Schmitt embroidery, and an A-line skirt. She wore a picture hat with Russian lace blusher and floor length veil and she held a white lace and gold accented fan decorated with white cattleya orchids, greenery and stephanotis.

MRS. PARENTE HOSTS MONDAY CARD CLUB

Mrs. Leona Parente, 1621 Lindell Blvd., was hostess to the Monday Afternoon Card Club held in her home this week.

Also attending were Marie Stieb and Elsie Staggs, guests; and Agnes Garin and Marie Perry. Mrs. Grace Henrich will entertain the group for the next meeting, it was announced.

BEN'S BIFOCALS

Benjamin Franklin described in a letter on May 23, 1783, the bifocal lenses he had fashioned from two pairs of eyeglasses.

Proverbs 6:2... "Thou art shamed with the words of thy mouth."

Troubled by our own conversation? Brought into mental bondage and held there by the words of our mouth. Even small problems are magnified by continual discussion of them.

Avoiding problems will not cause them to disappear. We must think and seek of solutions not problems.

With God all things are possible. Say them aloud. Repeat them until you feel like God will make a way for you. Read your Bible. Study the miracles that God wrought for His followers. He is not a respecter of persons. He will do for us what He has done for others.

God is able, willing, and ready to help you. Believe it—say it.

BAC course combines psychology and TV

Psychology and TV are part of daily living, and now Belleville Area College is combining the two.

College credit will be offered for "Understanding Human Behavior," an introductory psychology course to be aired on KETC-TV, Channel 9, this fall. Rita Heberer, who will be BAC mentor for the course, believes the telecourse is an exciting opportunity for District 322 residents.

"I think we'll reach a whole new group of students that for one reason or another are not on campus," Heberer said. "We'll reach a whole new population we've not been able to service including individuals who have always wanted to go back to school and were a bit afraid to come to campus."

The psychology class is one of three telecourses to be introduced at BAC in September. Also offered will be Introduction to Data Processing and Japanese History.

The telecourses will allow students to earn college credit without leaving home. Registration for the courses is under way at the BAC main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville. Phone registration will be accepted from July 20 to Aug. 7; call 235-7900. For information, on the telecourses, call 235-2700, extension 200.

The psychology course will be offered because it is a popular course on the main campus, Heberer said. "It's a valuable course for anyone as far as understanding themselves and others," she began. "It's helpful in every day living; everybody communicates with others. So much psychology goes on around us constantly."

She also believes the course is a good way for individuals to decide if they want to pursue college. Topics to be covered in the class will include human psychology, conditioning, the brain, consciousness and sleep, altered states of consciousness, pain and hypnosis, sensory deprivation, sexual motivation, stress, interpersonal attraction, social groups, persuasion, personality theory and psychotherapy.

The half hour tapes, which will be shown at 6:15 a.m. Wednesdays and Fridays, Sept. 16 through Dec. 4, were produced by Coast Community Colleges of California. Lectures are by Dr. James McConnell of the University of Michigan.

"The tapes are very relaxed and informational," Heberer said. "They use excerpts from films we use for the course on campus and they have more resources than we have in the BAC classroom."

Three hours of college credit will be given for the course. Tuition is $17 per credit hour or $51. A $20 TV fee will be assessed.

Students will be required to take mid-term and final examinations on campus. Six quizzes will be given through the mail.

Tests and quizzes have been prepared by Heberer and her counterparts at Meramec, Forest Park, Florissant Valley, and Lewis and Clark community colleges. The three St. Louis and two Illinois schools have coordinated the course, which will be offered by all of them.

KETC-TV will rerun Wednesday tapes at 7:30 a.m. Sundays and Friday tapes at 8 a.m. Sundays. Students may also view missed tapes or review them in the library at the BAC main campus. Twenty-four tapes will be shown.

The textbook, "Understanding Human Behavior," by McConnell, the lecturer, will be available in the BAC bookstore or through the mail.

Heberer will be available to answer questions by phone or in person about eight hours each week.

Heberer, a lifelong resident of Freeburg, has been a full-time psychology teacher at BAC for nine years. Before that she was a counselor at Lindbergh High School in St. Louis County. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees in education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

She developed BAC's adolescent psychology course as well as the college's death-and-dying class.

"Aging and Death has been popular with people in the health-related fields who may work in nursing homes," Heberer said.

She sees the psychology telecourse as one more way she can help expand BAC's offerings in the field.

"It can lay the groundwork for future TV courses in adolescent and social psychology," she said. Heberer is active in community organizations including the Red Cross and the United Fund.

Set state hearings on reapportionment

State Senator James Donnewald (D-Breese), chairman of the Illinois Legislative Redistricting Commission, has announced the commission will hold two public hearings on reapportionment this week in Chicago and Springfield.

"We want to provide everyone in the state of Illinois with ample opportunity to present their views on reapportionment to the commission," Donnewald said. Both hearings are scheduled for 10 a.m.

The Chicago hearing will be held in Room 1818 of the State of Illinois Building, 160 North LaSalle St.

The Springfield hearing will be held in Room 212 of the Illinois State Capitol Building.

State Representative Art Telser (R-Chicago), vice-chairman of the commission, will chair the Chicago hearing and Sen. Donnewald will chair the Springfield hearing.

In addition to testifying at the public hearing, the public is invited to submit written testimony on any proposal for legislative boundaries to the commission on or before July 30, Donnewald said. The special reapportionment commission was formed after the General Assembly was unable to come to an agreement on a redistricting plan for Illinois legislative districts by the June 30 constitutional deadline. The commission has until Aug. 10, to come up with a compromise reapportionment plan.

In addition to Donnewald and Telser, members of the commission include Sen. James "Pat" Philip (R-Elmhurst), Rep. Michael F. McLain (D-Quincy), Martin Murphy, commissioner of the Department of Planning of the City of Chicago, James Skelton, former Champaign County Treasurer, former State Representative Robert Casey of Batavia.

Anyone wishing to testify at the hearing or submit written proposals to the commission, may contact Dorothy Beck, 539 Capitol Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706, telephone 217-782-8804 or Mary Frances Squires, 900 Capitol Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706, telephone 217-782-6796.

Simon made more of No. 2 office than did O'Neal

David O'Neal and Paul Simon are both products of Madison St. Clair County politics, but they took diametrically different approaches to high elective office. O'Neal is leaving the position of lieutenant governor effective Aug. 1, following his resignation this month, while Simon went on from that office to run for governor (he was upset in the primary) and then to gain election as U. S. congressman from Southern Illinois.

Simon, a Democrat, formerly represented the local community in the state legislature. He survived "carpetbagger" charges to run and win in the 24th Congressional District, after it became clear that veteran Cong. Melvin Price would continue indefinitely in the 23rd District.

Simon, a deep thinker and a campaigner adept at remembering names and faces, served as lieutenant governor (1968-72) simultaneously with a Republican governor.

Despite this partisan handicap, he was able to play an active role (while strictly avoiding any sneaky executive office actions while the governor was out of the state, such as personnel appointments or legislative vetoes).

Saying he considered himself to be the state's ombudsman, Simon devoted full time to the post of lieutenant governor. He became an advocate for ordinary citizens and helped them fight "red tape" in government.

Now one of the most visible and outspoken congressmen in Washington, he is one of only three Illinois lieutenant governors to ever win a higher office after serving as the state's No. 2 official.

Neil Hartigan of Chicago was elected on the same Democratic ballot with Dan Walker, conqueror of Simon in the gubernatorial intra-party clash. The fall ticket twosome never got along, but Hartigan adopted Simon's self-starter policy and kept busy despite being ignored by Walker.

Hartigan continued the ombudsman program and, when a recession hit, aided citizens with unemployment compensation cases.

When senior citizens sought a greater voice in government, he rallied to their cause and the first Illinois Department of Aging in the nation was created.

As our Springfield bureau points out, the General Assembly reacted favorably to Hartigan and passed laws assigning him additional duties related to aging and the environment. Senior action centers now fall under the jurisdiction of the lieutenant governor, and he serves as chairman of the Abandoned Mined Lands Reclamation Council.

O'Neal, elected statewide in 1976 and 1978, piled up many votes and also won the U. S. Senate nomination over the incumbent attorney general in 1980—but lost to popular Alan Dixon, a Democrat who was the Illinois secretary of state.

O'Neal barely knew Thompson when both were elected, and was never accepted into the governor's "inner circle."

He did carry on the duties related to senior citizen assistance and mining studies, including coal use development. But he was not as active as Simon; O'Neal's main venture as a legislative activist was his part in successfully opposing ratification of the Equal (women's) Rights Amendment. (Thompson favored ratification.)

Concluding that the office of lieutenant governor was too confining and, at the same time, lacking in challenge and too meaningless, O'Neal considered taking an appointive federal position.

But the former pharmacist and former St. Clair County sheriff wanted a higher federal post than was offered, and now may enter private business instead.

The third Illinois lieutenant governor to resign, he is only the first in this century to do so.

The office will remain vacant for 17 months. Under the 1970 Illinois Constitution, a gubernatorial vacancy would be filled by the lieutenant governor, followed by the elected attorney general and then the elected secretary of state, neither of which exists; both the attorney and secretary posts are currently held by appointed officials.

Pending legislation that would place Illinois' Comptroller of the Treasury, a Democrat, next in the line of succession has not yet been acted on by Gov. Thompson, so any vacancy in the governor's office might prompt further General Assembly action.

Although it is true that the office of lieutenant governor suffers from the same problem as that of the vice-presidency—an insufficient number of constitutionally mandated duties and powers—one wonders whether it would have to be the "vast wasteland" that O'Neal found.

Perhaps some changes could be made, restoring the State Senate presiding officer duties and possibly creating an intergovernmental (federal-state-local) liaison role.

But even without such alterations, we would guess that O'Neal's 1983 successor will find much constructive work to do.

Says utility tax may chase away present, prospective industries

To the Editor:
I am writing this letter to express my opinion of the City Council and their handling of the present budget crisis.

It appears they have a much more realistic view of our need for industries than the city council. I think the people would be shocked at the amount of unnecessary employees we are paying for. A good place to start is the sewage treatment plant.

The industries have offered to loan us their people to help look the books over and the departments, and give a determination as to where they think we could save money.

Another thing Dan suggested was that the ambulance service could much more efficiently be managed. He suggested that GC, Madison and Venice could get together and decide what their needs would be for the whole area, draw up a proposal and accept bids from outside companies.

City employees would still be employed; they would simply be a company with much more experience and knowledge about ambulance service in charge.

Maybe with a more organized collection service, we might be able to make money off the ambulance service as opposed to going in the hole financially.

I would also like to say that I feel most assured that the four aldermen, Perjak, Bowler, Salich and Warfield, who took the time to meet with the industry spokesmen will see to it that the mayor is not allowed to strip this city of what has been our main source of employment for its resident for years.

In closing, I could not help but notice the wonderful cartoon in the July 9 issue of the Press-Record. I find this interesting because the Press endorsed Mayor Schuler. I hope the rest of the people "see the light" before it's too late.

Regulations costly

To the Editor:
The American dream. Say you're an energetic person with several years experience in construction and a respectable nest egg.

Like everyone else, you'd like to be your own boss, so you decide to incorporate and bid for a small government construction project.

Every year, hundreds of thousands of Americans dream just that dream.

Many of them enter the tough, competitive construction business and, while many fail, some succeed in a big way.

Unfortunately, it's becoming tougher and tougher to realize that dream, and the biggest obstacle is the federal regulatory octopus.

In part, the regulatory burden was allowed to grow to major proportions because the public had been terribly uninformed of this important facet of regulatory news.

Washington reporters admit that the regulatory beat is one of the least desirable. They consider it "dull," "boring," "drudgery," according to Hess.

Moreover, the problem is compounded by the news organizations which assign the least well qualified reporters to cover the beat, and then consign regulatory stories to the least prominent places in their papers and broadcasts.

The public has a right to know what's happening in the regulatory arena. It should demand more substantial news coverage of this important facet of government.

Better informed, the public will be better able to organize what is a reasonable and what is unreasonable.

HUBERT BEATTY
Executive Vice-President,
Associated General Contractors of America

At the same time, the Joint Economic Committee of Congress has recognized that "regulation cannot abide apart from all other considerations; it must be a part of the overall strategy to improve living standards."

"Left as a detached feature of government, the regulatory network smother's economic opportunity."

As high as the hidden regulatory tax may be, the worst effect of unreasonable regulation is one that cannot be qualified.

What damage is done to the general quality of life by a regulatory network that smother's economic opportunity, a regulatory octopus that crushes the entrepreneurial spirit?

State funds in 'warning zone' on ability to pay bills

Comment by Illinois State Comptroller Roland W. Burris—The state has ended another fiscal year. When the 1980-81 year came to a close on June 30, the balance in general funds was in the warning zone.

The available balance was $197 million, down $193 million from the year-end figure a year ago, June 30, 1980.

More significantly, the $197 million balance was below the $200 million warning level, signaling that caution must be exercised to avoid cash flow problems in paying the state's bills.

While general fund revenue grew $659 million or 8.8 percent in the 1980-81 fiscal year, more than half of that growth figure—$340 million or 31.7 percent—came from federal sources. And the state dipped deeper into its own cash reserves in special funds to prop up levels in the general accounts; there was a shift of $125 million from cash reserves into general funds.

State sales tax receipts dropped $46 million during 1980-81, primarily because of $110 million in tax relief from that fund

The major cause of the erosion of the general funds, however, was increased state spending. Expenditures were up $851 million or 11.4 percent compared to the previous fiscal year.

The two biggest factors in the spending spiral were a $359 million increase, 16.8 percent, in public aid grants, mostly for the mentally retarded, and a $292 million increase, 12.9 percent, in operations spending.

The $851 million rise in expenditures was the highest annual increase in state history since the 1960s.

The previous biggest year-to-year increase was $691 million in 1978-79.

Whether Illinois is not at the edge of bankruptcy, we are clearly in a period which requires extreme caution.

We must anticipate reduced revenues from the federal government, and, at the same time, recognize that both unemployment and a flat Illinois economy will further strain our revenues in the months ahead.

Madison Demos to attend state fair

Madison City Women Democrats will travel to Springfield, Aug. 12 to attend Democratic Day at the Illinois Fair, it was decided during a meeting of Madison Democrats, Monday night.

Maxine Costoff is chairman of the event.

The members pledged allegiance to the flag in unison and Chaplain Elizabeth Yankoff read an appropriate prayer, with a special prayer for members who are ill, Cora Barr and Connie Almon.

Prizes were finalized for the Ethnic picnic Aug. 21, 22 and 23. Hilda Graville was appointed chairman of the cake stand and Angela Vavra was named co-chairman.

On Sunday, chicken dinners will be served in the air-conditioned recreation center; Mary Rogenski, chairman. Mary Ann Bathon

MASTER'S DEGREE IN CONSTRUCTION FIELD

A newly created master's degree program in construction management is being offered for the first time this fall by the Washington University Department of Civil Engineering. It will provide basic business skills, including investment strategy, finance, labor relations, and such specialized courses as applying computer technology.

A feature will be an internship period emphasizing field experience with area firms and agencies. The internships are being established with the Associated General Contractors.

Larry Joe Koller, 25, of St. Louis, was injured during the weekend when the vehicle he was driving west struck a guard rail on the Yankoff Bridge in Venice, just a short distance from the toll booth.

What amazes me the most is the fact that our mayor seems to have forgotten the basis on which Granite City Steel agreed to give GC the $1.7 million for the overpass.

Thanks to the mayor, we could end up with a half-complete overpass and in debt to GC Steel.

When I started reading about the financial crisis we are in, I thought it all sounded familiar. If Dan Partney said this was all going to happen, just before the election.

Dan said he felt we need to have a thorough auditing from evaluation of all city departments. I as well feel we need to do this.

We need to evaluate which positions are vital and necessary for the city and which positions are merely political repayments.

I think the people would be shocked at the amount of unnecessary employees we are paying for. A good place to start is the sewage treatment plant.

Seeks data on DeMolay

To the Editor:
I am a French student and have a "Licence-es-Lettres" (English). This year, I am preparing my "Maitrise".

Master's degree whose subject is the appendant orders of Freemasonry and more particularly the order of DeMolay.

It is impossible for me to find in France some books about your order.

A mason gave me your address and so I decided to write to you hoping that you could help me in my researches.

If it were possible, could you send me pictures and some information about your society concerning its origins and history, its organization across the U.S.A., its ceremonies and so on.

I would not like to presume on your kindness, but if you sent me pictures, could you, please, send me three copies for each picture, because I had to write three copies of my "memoir".

Of course, I am ready to pay all the expenses, since the receipt of your bill.

Triplets ready to begin 'second season'

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record GRANITE CITY — The "second season" is underway. And for the Tri-City American Legion Post 113 Triplets, it'll officially get underway tomorrow night at Hoppe Field in Edwardsville (if the good Lord's willin' and the creek don't rise).

Tri-City has had almost a week to regroup, lick its wounds and get its pitching staff strengthened. And the Triplets have done just that. According to Manager Eldon Warfield, they're ready.

At least he hopes so.

"We've had two good practices," Warfield told the Press-Record this morning. "Everyone's rested and our pitching looks alright."

Warfield will most likely go with the ace of his staff, Keith Burton (6-1). "It looks like Keith right now," said Warfield. "I might go with (Kevin) Cripps, but I'm leaning toward Burton."

Burton has emerged as the leader of the Triplets' pitching corps. The 6-3 righthander is among the District 22 leaders in earned run average and won-loss percentage. He has a no-hitter under his belt this season and came close to pitching a perfect game the same game.

After walking O'Fallon's leadoff batter in the first inning, he set down everyone he faced the rest of the game.

Burton is the one pitcher who has been able to put the days off to good use. He pitched 13 innings last week in addition to facing five batters in Friday's Missouri-Illinois All-Star game at Heine Meine Field in South St. Louis.

When the Triplets take the field against Edwardsville, they'll have some evening up to do. The two teams have split this season. Tri-City won the first game 2-0 in a rain-shortened affair. But Edwardsville came back to shellack the Triplets 16-2 in the game three weeks ago at Edwardsville.

"I've been telling them (the Triplets) that we have to get even," said Warfield. "I don't think Edwardsville ran the score up on us in that one, though. I mean, when you (Tri-City) commit 10 errors in a game, the other team's gonna cross the plate some. Edwardsville doesn't do things like that."

"But we've got to prove it to ourselves and to Edwardsville that we can do it."

Tri-City could well be at full-strength for the first time in a long time. Regular third baseman John Vrenick has practiced with the team this week since being forced out three weeks ago with a foot injury. "He's had some trouble running, but it looks like he might be available Friday," said Warfield.

Vrenick's absence has forced Warfield to juggle his infield around. He eventually came up with the combination of Joe Schmecke at third base, Dan Patterson or Rick Daily at shortstop, Kevin Sykes or Patterson at second base and George Jarvis at first. But with Vrenick back in the lineup, the Triplets could go back with the original infield of Vrenick, Sykes, Patterson and Jarvis, third to first. "If he's (Vrenick) able, I'll sure as hell start him," said

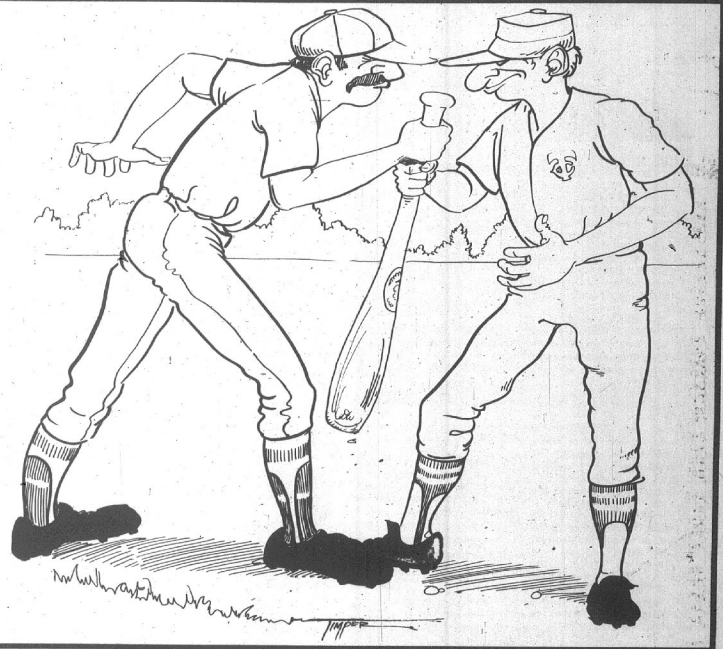

Warfield.

Should Tri-City beat Edwardsville in the double-elimination affair, it will most likely get a third shot at Alton, the team that finished first in the North Division this season and beat the Triplets twice in the process. Edwardsville was second and the Triplets third. Alton will face either Bethalto or Collinsville Friday.

Should Tri-City lose, it'll face the loser of the Alton game.

"Right now, I'd say Alton's the favorite," said Warfield. "They have to be. They won when they had to this season and finished first in the division. But we have to get by Edwardsville before we can think about Alton."

Collinsville bumps off East Alton 9-4

By JEFF WILSON for the Press-Record

COLLINSVILLE — Collinsville American Legion Post 365 did what it had to do last night at Fletcher Field here. Behind Kent Parker's three-run homer, and five RBI, and Dave Lambert's seven-hit pitching, Collinsville beat East Alton 9-4 in its first game of single-elimination play for the fourth District 22 North Division playoff spot.

Collinsville advances to play Bethalto tonight (weather permitting) at 8 at Fletcher Field. The winner will advance to the double-elimination North Division playoffs which begin Friday. The winner would play first place Alton.

But had it not been for a pep talk before the game, Collinsville's season might now be over.

"They said they wanted to play," said Fred McClary, Collinsville's manager. "I told them, mainly the seniors, that this was their last game of the season if they lost."

Losing was the last thing on Collinsville's minds. It jumped out to a three-run lead in the first inning. After one-out singles by Jack Graham and Todd Miller, Parker jumped on the first pitch from John Pearson and hit it out of the park about 350 feet.

"I was looking for a fastball and I got it," Parker said. That wasn't all he got. On the evening, Parker went three-for-three with two doubles, a walk and five RBI in addition to his first-inning home run.

The three first-inning runs out Collinsville on top to stay. But Post 365 wasn't about to stop there. "The boys hit real good tonight," said McClary. "We had more hits tonight than we've had all year."

Collinsville had ten hits in the game. "I tell them if they get the run for me, I'll keep them rummy for me (the other team) under three," Lambert said after raising his record to 5-2. Collinsville kept its end of the deal.

In the third inning, Post 365 upped its lead to 4-1. Miller led off with a single, stole second and went to third on a throwing error by East Alton catcher Bob Steeper. Miller came home on a wild pitch.

A three-run fourth inning was all Collinsville needed.

After Lambert reached on an error, by first baseman John Gaurino, Graham hit a two-out double down the right-field line to drive in Lambert with the eventual winning run.

Miller followed Graham with an RBI double and Parker did the same. At that point, Collinsville led 7-1.

Lambert was sharp most of the evening. In every inning, he struck out at least one batter. Two of his 12 strike out victims went down swinging.

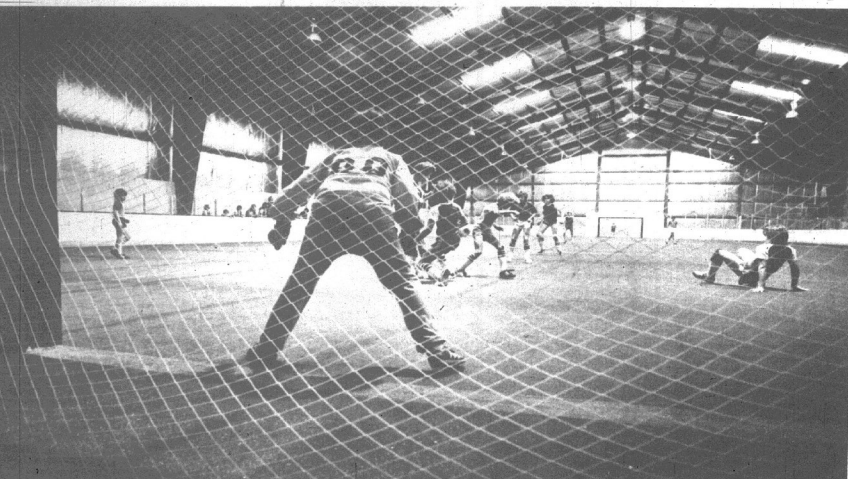

After Collinsville scored two more runs in the sixth to take a 9-1 lead, East Alton attempted a seventh-inning comeback. The first East Alton batter singled, and a one-out double by Greg Klader drove in one run.

Shane Gibbs then was walked and an error by third baseman Rod Woods allowed two more runs to score. Then Lambert shut the door and struck out the last two batters.

For Collinsville, Graham went two-for-four with a double, one run scored and one RBI. Miller was three-for-four with a double, a stolen base and four runs scored.

Say hey! Guess who's back?

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor

BELLEVEILLE — Never fear, area sports fans, Joe May's silver-throated voice will be ticking the airwaves this fall. It's just that it won't be over WIBV anymore.

May, who helped turn WIBV into the prep and college sports voice in the area, parted company with the station last month after a relationship of some 12 years (except for a nine-month stint in 1972 as sports director at WGNU in Granite City). But last week, it was announced that May will join the staff at WMRV-FM in Belleville.

WMRV-FM (101) has never ventured into the sports area before. A National Public Radio station, WMRV has become known as a jazz and easy of sorts last basketball season as he followed Madison High to the State Basketball Tournament, will be there for it.

WMRV also announced

listening music station. It has no commercials. But come next fall, WMRV will have Joe May. And football. And basketball. Lots of it. The schedule of broadcasts for the coming seasons is jammed. And May, who became a folk hero that St. Louis University Billiken basketball will be heard exclusively on the station. May will broadcast all home and away games. But that's not all. The station has a full slate of prep football and basketball games on tap.

May is good for high school sports. Sure, he may sound like an overgrown kid sometimes when the action gets fast and furious. And he may sound like the number one "home" in the world when he blasts a referee's decision. But that's ok for a radio announcer. From time to time. Especially when he's broadcasting high school sports back to the homeowners.

If not for May, many people wouldn't get the chance to hear what their sons or daughters are doing in a game. They couldn't follow their hometown team to the State Tournament. Some say newspapers and radio are in competition with each other. Maybe for the advertising bucks. But as far as news and sports are concerned, they can go hand-in-hand. People listen to a game on the radio because they couldn't be there in person. But when it's over, they still want to read about the details and statistics in the paper.

In addition to his duties at WMRV, May will continue to host his weekly half-hour cable TV program, "Joe May on Sports," seen over Southwestern Cable Television. He also is the host of "The Whitey Herzog Show," seen on seven TV stations in six states (not produced during the baseball players' strike).

Moore had an idea

GRANITE CITY — After Tuesday night's workout for women age 25 and over, Mike Moore and Jane Kehoe, the instructors of the clinic, sat in the lounge of Soccer For Fun, and discussed the development of the women's league.

"It was my first idea to start a league for women in the 30 and over age group, but we didn't get a very good response," explained Moore. "We had some girls in their late 20's who got into the 17-over league, and they had a great time. But they did have a hard time keeping up with the younger girls."

"Then two girls, Sandra Jones and Sandy Bristol, asked me about getting a 25 and older league going. I told them, that with enough interest, I would."

The rest is history. On every Thursday night, a league for women over 25 is played at Soccer For Fun. Then on Tuesdays, a clinic is held for the women. The clinic is the second held at the Granite City facility.

"The last clinic we had for this age group was for 21 and over, and was mixed. It really wasn't fair for the ladies to compete against some of the men that play in our leagues," Moore said.

Kehoe then said that most of the ladies that attend the clinic had little or no soccer experience before. She said she has seen improvement.

"We are just teaching the correct techniques. We just hope that the ladies carry them over into their league play."

Thursday night will be the proof.

Top tennis players at SIU-E

EDWARDSVILLE — Fifty of the best amateur tennis players in the nation, representing all 10 regions of the United States, will convene on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus beginning July 26, to determine the United States Tennis Association (USTA) National Boys Intercollegiate Team championship.

The tournament, which includes 42 nationally ranked boys between the ages of 16 and 18 years old, is the first of its kind in this region, according to SIUE Head Tennis Coach Kent DeMars, who is also tournament director. Over the past three years, the intersectional team championships have been held in Ft. Worth, Tex., on the campus of Texas Christian University.

Expected to make a strong challenge to repeat as intersectional champions, and this year's top seed, will be the five-man squad from Southern California. The powerful Southern California team features all five of its players in the national rankings, and four are ranked in the top eight in the nation. Jorge Lozano, Southern California's number one singles player, recently teamed with Raul Ramirez to represent Mexico in the Davis Cup matches played against U.S. representatives Roscoe Tanner and Jimmy Connors.

The Missouri Valley, the host region, will feature athletes representing the six-state area of Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Iowa and Kansas. Expected to make a strong challenge for Southern California's title, the Missouri Valley members include: Ian McLaughlin of Rock Island, Ill.; Bob Anderson of Principia High School in St. Louis; Scott Alexander of Penn Day High School in Kansas City, Mo.; Rick Aubin of Mission, Kan.; and Gary Osteen of Oklahoma City, Okla. Doug Smith, a native of St. Louis, will coach the talent-laden squad, while Rob Mollerling, a two-time Missouri high school state champion from St. Louis University High School, will serve as an alternate to the team.

Ladies get a kick out of it

BY TERRY MACKIN

GRANITE CITY — The players' eyes were glued to the coach, as they listened intently to his instructions. Some sat on soccer balls, some stood. All were ready to learn.

The coach was Mike Moore, the soccer coordinator at Soccer For Fun, Inc. in Granite City, where the lesson was being held. The players were all ladies, age 25 and over.

It was not your ordinary soccer clinic. Over 35 female athletes gathered around the center circle, as half slowly stretched green, mesh jerseys over their t-shirts. The group was now divided into teams.

Stretching exercises were next. With over a dozen soccer balls in the middle of their circle, the ladies stood straight-kneed, and grasped for the turf in front of them. They realized the importance of tomorrow, and did not want sore muscles to burden their day.

As they loosened up, the athletes talked among themselves. Most were married and their husbands watched from the stands. Some were mothers, as their kids impatiently glared onto the soccer field. They had to wonder why dad was watching mom, instead of the usual opposite.

Coch Moore then told the ladies to break up into two groups, and the ladies jumped at his request. With a group on each side of the middle line of the field, Moore then instructed the ladies on the fine art of dribbling.

"Keep the ball as close to the body as possible. You control the ball. Don't let the ball control you," Moore shouted, as he performed the task, along with his assistant Jane Kehoe, for the listening ladies.

It was now their turn. One by one, the ladies took their turn at dribbling the ball with their feet to one side of the facility and back. All jogged very cautiously. Some laughed at the mistakes of others. Some laughed at themselves. All were in the same boat. All gave it their best shot.

It only got harder. The next task was to dribble the ball between four orange, construction-like cones that were placed in front of the ladies. As most of the ladies panted from their previous exercise, the others giggled at the thought of their next.

The ladies performed this task a little slower than the first, but their confidence grew with each turn. By their final time, many breezed through the cones and back, as if it was just a warmup for an important game.

Moore then instructed the ladies to pick a partner and grab a ball. The cones were then placed in a circle in the middle of the field, as the athletes waited for the coach's instructions.

Moore then told the ladies to, one group of partners at a time, enter the circle and dribble the ball as quickly as possible. Once again, he showed the athletes what he wanted.

Within minutes, the center of the Soccer For Fun field resembled a popular shopping center on Christmas Eve. Except all of the legs that were struggling for position were trying to control a soccer ball.

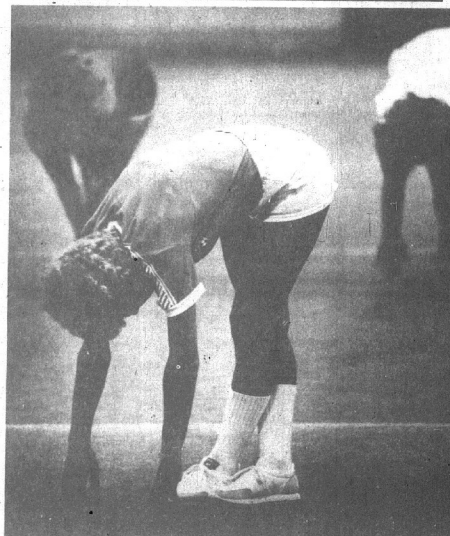

"Look for an empty place," instructed Moore. "Then dribble to your partner." He stood in the middle of the chaos until it was over.

It was then time for the game. The ladies in the green shirts went to one bench, and the others walked to the other side. By positions, Moore made platoons of nine for each time. It was now time to examine the old "practice makes perfect" cliché.

The game lasted 14 minutes, until 10 p.m., when the session was over. After much bumping, kicking, and hustling, few goals were scored. A lot of close shots, but no cigars. The final score was: The Regular Shirts 1, The Green Machine 0.

After the game, Moore called the ladies over to the front of the team benches. He congratulated them on a "very good workout", and then informed them that next session hitting the ball with the head would be the main topic.

Groans echoed from the area. Even though the athletes were smiling in between pants, they could wait for their next lesson.

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis sportscaster David Bacon has been named the new Sports Information Director at St. Louis University by Athletic Director Ron Ekker. Bacon replaces Dick O'Connor, who resigned to become the Assistant SID at Kansas University.

"We're really pleased that someone of David's qualifications was available for this position," Ekker said. "David should be a real asset for the Billikens."

"I'm looking forward to this new opportunity,"

Bacon said. "Coach Ekker has just turned the corner in rebuilding the basketball program. I'm excited about being a part of that and publicizing the other sports in the Athletic program here."

Bacon, a 1975 graduate of Southern Methodist University, has been a sportscaster for KSD Radio and KTVI-TV since moving to St. Louis in April of 1980. Previously, he had worked for TV stations in Midland, Texas, and San Antonio, Texas.

City 'opens fire' on treatment plant; reduces manpower by five employees

The Granite City Wastewater Treatment Plant, which has survived all city budget and personnel cuts until Tuesday night has found the tables turned as the city's pollution plant committee dropped bombshells after bombshells on the previously untouched department.

Going into Tuesday night's meeting, the plant had 29 employees. One of the first items of business was to accept the retirement of Marvin Kinworthy, a truck driver, reducing the number at the plant to 28.

Alderman Warren Decatur, chairman of the pollution plant committee, then recommended a 20-percent decrease in the manpower of the plant and the council concurred, ordering an immediate layoff of four more employees. Decatur announced another employee is expected to retire in January, bringing the manpower at the plant down to 23, six less than the department had Tuesday.

Other bombshells followed. Decatur first recommended that the council seek bids for a contractor to take over the job of hauling sludge from the treatment plant to the Millam East dump, which would result in the layoff of the truck drivers involved in that task.

The council unanimously agreed to have bid specifications prepared that require bidders to agree to either purchase or lease the city's diesel tractor and sludge hauling trailers if they win the sludge hauling contract.

Decatur then went one step further, a step not anticipated by most of the city officials. He recommended that specifications be prepared for bidding for a contractor to take over the entire treatment plant and operate it for the city under a contract, which would involve transferring the payroll of all of the city employees to that of the contractor or of laying off all sewage treatment plant employees.

That proposal also was accepted unanimously by the council. Only Alderman Margaret Nomm was absent.

Decatur announced that the steps proposed, thus far, are not the only ones which will be taken to bring the expenses of the sewage treatment plant in line with its income, since the plant is supposed to be self-sufficient. "That's just a part of it," Decatur said as he pondered the proposed 1981-82 fiscal year budget for that plant.

The treatment plant's budget is expected to be discussed further at a special budget meeting of the council at 7 tonight in the council chambers at city hall.

The one thing that all the aldermen have been careful to avoid saying is that one way to help balance the budget of the sewage treatment department may be to increase the sewage treatment fee charged to the city's residents and businesses. Residents currently pay $13 a quarter (each three months) for sewage treatment.

Linked with any increase in city treatment fees would be a corresponding increase in treatment fees to the users of the new Four Township sanitary sewers in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships, which just been hit with a $4 a month increase from the county for maintaining the sewers and the county's special sewer district. Strong opposition can be anticipated from the county users to any attempt to raise the treatment fees.

But, for now, discussions have centered on reducing the costs at the treatment plant, rather than raising additional revenue.

One suggestion made Tuesday night which might result in increased revenue for the plant was the suggestion by Alderman Everett Morien of the First Ward that the city investigate the possibility of leasing the sludge incinerator at the treatment plant to private industry or anyone who would pay for its use.

The incinerator has been inactive since Miles Laboratories closed its plant and the organic content of the city's sewage decreased to a point where sludge could no longer be burned efficiently without adding large quantities of fuel oil to the sludge.

Since it was less expensive to haul the sludge to the dump than to burn it, the city closed the incinerator and used dump trucks to haul the sludge. Later, a diesel tractor and two giant sludge trailers were purchased to further reduce expenses.

Action taken by the council Tuesday night to seek bids for sludge hauling could take the city out of that business and dispose of the tractor and trailers.

Decatur made his recommendations as he pondered a proposed budget for the sewage treatment plant. The seventh revised budget considered for this fiscal year which is $558,734 higher than the expenditures for the previous fiscal year. Higher utility bills and salaries were blamed by Decatur for much of the increase.

He said he hopes to bring expenditures this fiscal year into line with the plant's income, returning the plant to the self-sustaining status it is supposed to maintain. He noticed that it was necessary to borrow $111,000 recently to pay bills at the treatment plant and said the city's strained general fund cannot afford to support that plant in addition to other necessary city services.

The budget now being considered, and trimmed, calls for expenditures in the 1981-82 fiscal year of $2,194,945, which is $400,092 over anticipated income of $1,794,853. Another $27,450 is being added for minor cuts recommended by the pollution plant committee last week, but Decatur said he still is attempting to close a $373,642 discrepancy between anticipated income and anticipated spending in this fiscal year.

The layoffs of four persons, the retirement of Kinworthy and the anticipated January retirement of another employee is expected to save approximately $150,000 during the fiscal year.

Contracting sludge hauling or even operation of the entire plant to an outside firm could bring the operating costs of the plant within its income, Decatur hopes.

Terrance McMillan, superintendent of the sewage treatment plant, was on vacation this week and could not be reached for comment on Decatur's proposals and on the council's actions.

Professional foster care in 7 counties

An experimental foster home program being developed as a demonstration project includes Madison, Bond, Clinton, Monroe, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington counties.

Anthony Jenkins, regional administrator of the East St. Louis Region, Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, said Professional Foster Care is intended to provide intensive foster care services to 50 teenagers identified as having moderate to severe behavior problems.

Such problems may include consistent truancy, running away from home, sexual activity, like shoplifting and trespassing.

Professional foster parents will work closely with department social workers and will care for no more than two teens at any given time.

Department advocates who function as "big brothers" and "big sisters" will visit participating teenagers on a weekly basis, thereby assisting and relieving the foster parents. Professional foster parents will receive the adolescent board fee of $212 per month per child that all department foster parents receive, as well as an additional $10 per day for each teenager placed in their home, for a maximum of $522 per month per child.

Jenkins added that $57 per month is mandated by department regulations to be used for each youth's clothing and personal allowance.

Currently, the East St. Louis region has 44 teenagers placed in private residential treatment centers at an average cost of $46 per day.

If the professional program is successful, the 50 participating teenagers will be diverted from residential care, resulting in considerable savings in state revenue, while allowing residential facilities to devote their efforts to teens with more severe emotional problems, Jenkins explained.

Although professional foster parents will serve children of both sexes, the department plans to place only children of the same sex in each home.

In addition to dealing with children with behavior problems, professional foster parents will be expected to have one parent available to attend department meetings during the 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. workday, to reject no more than one of the five teens placed in their home each year, and to attend 30 hours of department-sponsored training annually.

"Consistency and commitment are the necessary components for the success of the professional foster parent program," Jenkins said. "Professional foster parents must be able to set and maintain reasonable limits and be willing to work with a teenager who will give little in return."

"All will be licensed by the department."

"There is no fee for a license. The requirements include submitting references, undergoing a criminal background check, meeting with department social workers, and providing medical information."

Area residents interested in learning more about the professional foster home program may call Shirley Faber at 878-8985.

Hearing tests, aids available through VA

Answers to questions frequently asked by veterans are given in this column prepared by the Veterans Administration.

Q—I am a World War I veteran and am having problems hearing. Will the Veterans Administration examine me and provide a hearing aid if I need one, since I cannot afford one?

A—Yes. Under a law that went into effect in December 1979, the VA can provide any medical need for a World War I veteran in a VA facility.

Q—My husband's death was service connected. Am I eligible for a Veterans Administration burial allowance?

A—Yes. Payment up to $1,100 is allowed if the veteran's death was service connected. This payment is in lieu of the $300 basic burial allowance and the $150 plot allowance.

Q—I received an automobile grant from the Veterans Administration several years ago because of my service and connected disability. Can I get another?

Festivities at Mounds on this weekend

Annual festivities in a "Rediscover Cahokia" program will be held at Cahokia Mounds state park during the weekend, July 25 and 26.

The weekend event will demonstrate what life must have been like a thousand years ago, when a prehistoric civilization flourished in the area just a few miles from the Mississippi river.

Demonstrations are scheduled almost continuously throughout the two-day event, including flintknapping (arrow making), stone drilling, painting of animal skins, weaving, pottery making and food preparation.

Guests also will be taken on walking and bus tours of the area, including the massive Mounds' Mound. Movies and videotapes will be shown regularly. The event is free. Refreshments, picnic space and a gift shop are available.

one now that the car is getting old?

A—No. The automobile grant is a one-time benefit. However, the VA will pay to reinstall the adaptive equipment in a new car.

Q—Before I convert my Veterans Group Life Insurance to a private policy, do I have to take a physical exam?

A—No. The Office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance will notify you before your insurance expires and will provide you with a list of companies participating in the conversion plan. You will then have sufficient time to convert and the policy will be issued to you without a physical exam at standard rates.

Q—What is the maximum amount I can borrow on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A—The limit is no legal maximum. The VA will guarantee 60 percent of the loan or $27,500, whichever is less. The total amount of the loan is determined by the policy of your lending institution and by your ability to repay the loan.

Q—My husband died in 1975. At the time of his death I did not want the headstone or marker provided by the Veterans Administration, but I heard recently that the VA pays an amount toward the purchase of a headstone. Am I entitled to this benefit?

A—No. The law providing for this benefit was not passed until late 1978. The deceased must have been buried after the law took effect in order for the survivor to be eligible for reimbursement.

Q—Can a veteran get an extension of his 10-year delimiting date for education benefits from the Veterans Administration?

A—If a veteran was physically or mentally disabled during the period of his eligibility, he may apply for an extension by submitting medical evidence for consideration.

Q—When are dividends paid on participating National Service Life Insurance policies?

A—Dividends are normally paid on the anniversary date of the insurance policy.

Crime in first half of year up 9.2%; more cases solved

Crime in Granite City climbed 9.2 percent during the first half of 1981 over the first half of 1980, while the number of cases cleared by arrest rose 65 percent, according to a study of the monthly reports issued by the Granite City Police Department.

Despite the rise in crime, the 1,242 major crimes which occurred in Granite City in the first half of this year were less than half of the 2,529 major crimes committed in the city in all of 1980, according to last year's figures just released by the Department of Law Enforcement of the Division of Support Services, Illinois Bureau of Identification.

During the first six months of 1980, there were 1,137 major crimes committed in the city, but that figure more than doubled to 2,529 by the end of the year, according to the FBI figures.

Arrests were from 2,217 in the first half of 1980 to 2,669 in the first half of this year and a total of 3,083 charges were lodged against persons by the Granite City police in the first half of this year, up 17 percent from the 2,633 charges filed during the first six months of 1980.

Crime increases were noted in every major category except two. Auto burglaries declined 43 percent, from 198 cases in the first half of 1980 to 113 in the first half of this year, and murder stayed at the same level with one in the first half of each year. There had been one murder arrest early last year, but none in the first half of this year.

Some of the larger increases were in rapes, which climbed 150 percent, from two cases in the first six months of 1980 to five thus far this year, and robberies, which were up 54 percent, from 11 cases to 17 during the same period.

Auto theft cases climbed 35 percent, from 57 cases to 77, burglaries climbed 27 percent, from 253 cases to 321, larcenies climbed 16 percent, from 415 to 482 cases, and assaults were up 13 percent, from 200 cases to 226, all comparing the first six months of the two years.

Of the cases cleared by arrest, the largest increases were seen in robbery, up from three to seven, auto thefts, up from four to seven, burglaries, up from 39 to 51, larcenies, up from 128 to 159, and assaults, up from 177 to 196.

A total of 1,000 cases had been cleared with 435 arrests by July 1, 1981, up from 858 cases cleared with 365 arrests in the first half of 1980.

Traffic arrests were up 22 percent from 1,491 in the first half of 1980 to 1,819 in the same period this year. Including traffic arrests, a total of 2,699 persons were arrested the first half of this year, up 20 percent from the 2,217 arrests in the same half of 1980.

Two persons have been fatally injured in two auto accidents thus far this year. The same number were killed in one fatal accident in the first half of 1980.

Injury accidents are up 22 percent, from 180 in the first half of 1980 to 195 in the same period this year.

The number of property damage accidents, however, is running lower this year than last by nine percent. There were 574 accidents in the first half of this year, compared to 624 in the same period of last year. Total accidents, including injury, property damage and fatal accidents, was 771 in the first half of this year, down three percent of the 795 in the same period of last year.

The number of persons injured in injury accidents also increased in the first half of this year, from 211 to 257.

The report noted that the police department answered 11,167 complaints during the first half of 1981.

The new FBI report on 1980 crime in Granite City shows that crime declined 7.5 percent in 1980 from the 1979 level. There were 2,339 major crimes in all of 1980, compared to 2,529 the year before.

However, with an estimated population drop from 40,700 to 36,227, the crime rate increased between the two years, the statistics show. Crimes averaged 6,403.5 per 100,000 persons, up 3.1 percent from the 6,213.8 crimes per 100,000 persons in 1979.

The 1980 figures showed murder and manslaughter up 100 percent from 1979 (two murders to four); up 13.8 percent for aggravated assault and battery (60 to 69 cases) and rape staying the same (eight cases each year).

Showing declines in the official 1980 figures were robberies, down 16.1 percent (31 cases to 26); Burglaries, down 8.5 percent (658 to 598); thefts, down 4.7 percent (from 1,531 to 1,459), and motor vehicle thefts down 35.8 percent (203 to 131). There were 32 arson cases in Granite City in 1980. No statistics are available for arson cases in 1979.

Nameoki asks more security at park

By MARK RESSMAN

Nameoki Township officials may soon take steps to inform area legislators of improvements needed in the security and staffing of the Horseshoe Lake Recreation Area.

That was the word from Township Supervisor Harry Briggs at last week's meeting of the township board.

The discussion started when Trustee Helen Hawkins commented on an incident in which a night watchman at the park was shot at while attempting to clear the park after its 10 p.m. closing time.

"He very easily could have been killed," Hawkins said.

Frank Mehelic, township highway commissioner, said a campsite applicant completed on the south side of the lake near Bend Road was, in his mind, "a waste of the taxpayer's money." He said he thought with the current staff, it would be nearly impossible to provide security to the campsite.

Briggs agreed that there are problems at the park that need to be looked into. "We're just trying to help out," he said.

"Now that the legislators are home from Springfield, we need to take them to the park to get their opinions," he added.

In other business the board:

—Approved authorization of tax anticipation warrants totalling $30,000 for the town fund. The warrants allow the township to borrow money it hasn't yet collected from this year's taxes.

—We're not going to receive the funds until October since the bills aren't going to be sent out until September," Briggs said.

Briggs said since Madison County is late getting out the bills, almost all tax bodies are having to authorize the warrants.

Hawkins said she thought something should be done to eliminate the use of the warrants in the future. She said it was unfair to the taxpayers to have to pay the interest on the warrants.

The township has used the warrants each year for quite a while, Briggs said.

—Heard a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury which said the township had met revenue-sharing requirements for next year.

—Approved a wage of $5 per hour to township worker Tom Brice for spraying of holding ponds after his regular hours.

Warns against phoney bills

Area businesses were warned this week against unwittingly paying unauthorized invoices. Companies have reported to the Better Business Bureau that they are being sent so-called "bills" for orders which they are not authorized by the firms.

A scheme such as this relies on the fact that some businesses do not carefully scrutinize small bills. Company accountants and business executives should become aware of these types of business practices and should on guard against paying phoney bills.

To the company's accounting department, the invoice may seem genuine and even include the name of the company executive as the "authorized agent."

Before paying an invoice, businesses should be sure that the merchandise was ordered by their firm. After checking, if it is found that the order was not authorized, the firm should contact a U.S. Postal Inspector's office, as well as the BBB.

If a scheme such as this is not reported when it is discovered, it may mean a substantial loss to the entire business community. The main basis for the success of a scheme of this nature is that the deception is perpetuated on the recipients. Sometimes it is not aware of the deception committed and it is left unreported. If a scheme is successful, you can bet they will continue to work the area.

The Madison Total Teller is scheduled to be operational by mid-August. A bank spokesman said they are also installing a Total Teller in the bank lobby at 1909 Edison Ave. for use by customers Monday through Thursday until 5 p.m.

Two Total Tellers are in operation now and are located at 3030 Madison Ave., and in the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center on Nameoki Road.

School loans authorized at $2.4 million

by DONNA KIMBRO of the Press-Record

The Granite City Board of Education has approved the issuance of tax anticipation warrants in the amount of $2,000,000 in the Educational Fund and $400,000 in the Building Fund.

The warrants will be issued between July 15 and Sept. 15. According to Norman Owca, director of finance, the anticipated expenses for July and August in the Educational Fund will amount to $1,825,000 and for the same period of time $369,000 in the Building Fund.

Board approval was also granted in a board meeting last week to Ronald Landman, maintenance supervisor, to secure an easement across property belonging to Chouteau Township for the purpose of connecting the Mitchell School building to the new sewer system. According to Landman this will allow the board to dispose of the present sewer treatment plant, which is costing $200 a month maintenance fee.

In conjunction with a court settlement between the school district and teachers, Harold Hillmer reported that the case had been settled on the condition that both parties would accept the court's judgment, as amended, and the School District would pay the 1979-80 teachers collectively the sum of $39,220. He added separate checks in that amount were issued on June 26.

Arrangements to sell the student constructed home have not materialized and the house is still being offered for sale, Superintendent of Schools B.J. Davis, noted.

It was also announced during the session that institute day will be held on Aug. 24 at North High School cafeteria, 4950 Maryville Road, with Warren

Motor fuel tax is distributed

Illinois municipalities have been allotted $10,293,861.00 as their share of motor fuel tax paid into the State Treasury during June, according to the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Motor fuel tax funds are allocated monthly to the various municipalities in Illinois for their streets and highways. The monies allocated are computed on the basis of population.

Payments to Quad-City communities include $39,717 to Granite City, $6,381 to Madison and $3,754 to Venice.

Payments of motor fuel tax to counties, also for the month of June, included $137,542 for Madison County.

Venice seeks grant for new community center

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols told the Venice city council last week that the three priorities he has applied for through Community Development grants are a community center for senior citizen and youth use primarily, street improvements and a van for senior citizens.

"I have been working close with the other black mayors in our association and Community Development authorities and I think we should be at the big end of the stick when grants are made this time.

"That is why I asked for a community center. Who knows but what we may luck out and get one approved," Echols said.

He informed the council that the public hearing on Federal Revenue Sharing funds for the period of May 1, 1981, through April 30, 1982, was held just prior to the Tuesday council meeting.

At the public hearing only two citizens who were not city officials, were present. No suggestions were made for proposed expenditures. The amount the city anticipates receiving is $90,000, which is $5,000 less than last year. However, with funds that were not spent, the 1981-82 tentative budget is $169,000. Details of the tentative Federal Revenue Sharing fund projections are posted in the city hall and there have been no changes since published in the legal section of the Press-Record on Thursday, July 2.

Demolition of unsafe building was dropped from last year's $15,000 to $5,000, which is the major reduction between last year and the new budget.

"We will just have to start leaning harder on the owners to tear down or fix up their buildings. Hopefully we will get some help from other federal programs. We still have some houses that need to be torn down, but the city can no longer afford to be in the demolition business," Echols said.

Announce Day Camp winners

The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced last week's winners in day camp sports and games competitions. The prize winners in the "Watermelon Eating Contest" were Campers Kevin Teller and Melissa Murray. Mike Hart won the "Seed Spitting" competition. In addition, "Campers of the Day Awards" were won by Eric Hill, Holly Large and J. D. Hart.

The YMCA Day Camp program meets on a weekly basis, Monday through Friday, from 8:15 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Granite City Army Depot. Transportation is provided from the "Y" to the camp site. Daily activities include swimming (twice daily), arts and crafts, games, theme days, sports competitions and field trips.

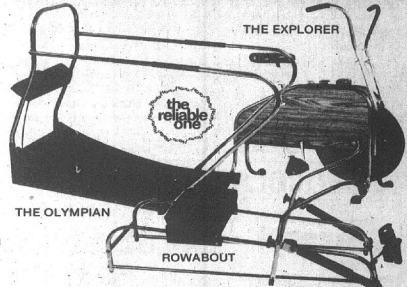

Further information may be obtained by calling the "Y" at 870-7200.

ABOVE AND BEYOND. Madison mail carrier Larry Hays, left, receives a certificate of appreciation from the U.S. Postal Service for his alert and prompt action on May 28 of this year which has been accredited for saving the life of Mrs. Helen Merski, 1514 Seventh St. He heard her plea for help after she became dizzy and fell, injuring her head. The certificate and accompanying letter of commendation will be added to his personnel file for his actions above and beyond the call of duty. At right is Madison Postmaster William Moore.

Probe cause of GC Steel blast that injured three

By ED GURNEY
The president of Local 16 of the United Steelworkers said last week that it would be unfair to say an explosion at Granite City Steel last week was strictly the fault of the operating crew.

"I believe our men were following the order of the company, and that's all they could do," said the union president, Gerald Teller.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration is investigating the accident.

Three Collinsville men who were members of the operating crew were seriously injured in the July 8 explosion. They are Nicholas Novosel, 26; Richard Bickel, 32, and Burleigh Hawk, 44.

Novosel was in serious condition and Bickel was listed in critical condition this morning in the burn unit at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in Creve Coeur, Mo. A St. John's spokesman said Hawk has been moved out of the burn unit and is in satisfactory condition.

Teller stressed that the union as well as the company was sad that the accident occurred, and that he is not trying to point the blame. But he said he believed the crew members "weren't to blame any more than anyone else."

Carl Bacenas, public relations director for Granite City Steel said the company's investigation revealed the mistake was made by the entire operating crew.

Members of the crew should have been able to see that slag was being poured into the mold section of the caster, he said.

The slag apparently reacted with water and caused the explosion.

Teller said a shroud prevented a ladle operator from seeing that all the steel was poured out of the ladle and that slag, a waste product, was being poured, too.

The shroud was placed between the ladle and the tundish, a type of holding container from which steel is poured into a mold, Teller said.

"At this particular time he (the ladle operator) couldn't tell whether slag or steel was coming out of it," Teller added.

"The man couldn't see a damn thing," another source said.

Teller said that neither Hawk, the strator operator, nor his two assistants (Bickel and Novosel) could tell there was slag in the tundish when it was being poured into the mold, Teller said.

He said Hawk made some comment indicating he may have felt something was amiss; the foreman heard the remark on the radio intercom and ordered that the operation be stopped, "but that was too late. It blew," Teller said.

The union president said the firm told him this was the first time anyone had experienced the use of such a shroud in the United States. (The purpose of the shroud was to improve the quality of the steel.)

The caster the men were operating was made in Japan and has been in operation in Granite City since March. Consultants from Japan were there to help make the operation work properly and recommended use of the shroud.

Bacenas said shrouds had been used previously and that use of a shroud was not considered the cause of the accident. "All I can say is as far as I know, nothing was done of an unusual nature that contributed to the accident," Bacenas said.

Larry Olson, district supervisor for OSHA in Belleville, said his agency's investigation is not complete. An OSHA investigator has made three visits to the steel plant so far, he said.

Teller said that he and company representatives accompanied the OSHA investigator on an inspection.

Olson said the investigation into such an accident "is a very lengthy process" that could take between two weeks and two months.

The process could lead to issuance of citations against Granite City Steel if it is determined that federal safety standards were violated, he said.

Auxiliary 204 donates $400

Madison Amvets Auxiliary 204 members agreed to donate $400 to the John Cochran Veteran's Hospital in St. Louis, during a meeting held at the Amvets Post, last week.

The donation was for the veteran's hospital and to purchase coupon books for the veterans to use for their personal needs, according to President Maclean Adams.

The meeting was opened with the pledge, to the flag followed by Chaplain Dorothy Mercer reading the Amvets prayer.

During the session Mrs. Adams gave a report on the state convention she attended in Peoria, Ill. She announced an executive meeting will be held at the post home at 8 p.m. on Aug. 4, preceding the regular monthly gathering.

Refreshments were served to the named and to Laurie Griffith, Hilda Gravelle, Carolyn Gerlach, Neil Holshouser, Norma Diak, Eadyne Gravelle, Theola Garcia, and Juanita Moudrasic.

ROWLEY APPOINTED
Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation allowing the Illinois State Fair to provide refunds for cancelled State Fair entertainment attractions and to expedite payment for awards and premiums.

These reforms will be made possible by establishing an imprest account. The awards and premiums payment procedures will be in place for this year's fair. The refund policy for entertainment will start with the 1982 fair.

"One of the biggest complaints we hear from exhibitors at the fair is slow payment on awards and premiums," the governor said. "This legislation corrects that and also substantially reduces the paperwork needed to make the awards."

"I am also very pleased that we will have a refund policy in place for entertainment starting next year. If people pay for a show, they should either see it or get their money back."

Deadlines for ticket printing, brochures, contracts and programs for entertainment prevented the refund policy from being in place for this year's fair.

I.B. 172 was sponsored by Representative Judy Koehler, Henry, and Senator Robert Sommer, Morton.

Ford will discuss the impact of monetary reform measures passed by Congress and the impact of inflation on primary and secondary mortgage markets.

Approves refund policy for 1981 Illinois fair

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation allowing the Illinois State Fair to provide refunds for cancelled State Fair entertainment attractions and to expedite payment for awards and premiums.

These reforms will be made possible by establishing an imprest account. The awards and premiums payment procedures will be in place for this year's fair. The refund policy for entertainment will start with the 1982 fair.

'81 March of Dimes queen contest starts

By VALERIE EVENDEN of the Press-Record
Nine candidates already have registered for the 1981 March of Dimes Queen Contest, it was announced this week by the Metro-East CB Clubs organization, which is sponsoring the event for the second year.

Among the contestants is Gwendolyn Stratton of Granite City.

Prospective candidates still may register for the contest.

Climaxing the competition will be the coronation ball at 8 p.m. Oct. 23, at American Legion Post 199, located on St. Louis Road, Edwardsville.

Applications and further information may be obtained by calling Barbara Downing, project director, at 1-288-9362 or 1-692-9888.

Any single girl 13 years of age or older may enter the contest. She is required to have a sponsor, which may be any area club, group or organization, Mrs. Downing explained.

A candidate does not have to be a C.B.R. nor does the sponsoring group have to be C.B. affiliated, she said.

An orientation tea is planned for the contestants from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. Sunday, July 26, at Eden Village in Glen Carbon.

Winner of the contest will be the candidate raising the most money for the March of Dimes, who will be crowned queen at the coronation ball.

Among the gifts the queen will receive are $200 cash, a $100 U.S. Savings Bond, a crown, scepter and ribbon, a stereo with a tape deck and radio, a 12-inch television, wristwatch, luggage, digital clock radio, perfume, jacket, camera and gift certificates.

At the present time, the candidates are arranging various projects, such as bake sales, car washes, dances and selling tickets for the ball, to help raise funds, Mrs. Downing said.

She urged the public to support these efforts and stressed that all proceeds are contributed to the March of Dimes.

Last year's winner was Miss Patsy Forrester of Collinsville.

In addition to Miss Stratton, the candidates include:

Rhonda McCartney and Cindy Ogbe, both of Collinsville; Marsha Akers of Jerseyville; Lori Trockler of Edwardsville; Sheri Lynn Naugle of Holiday Shores, Edwardsville; Kelly Wilson of Belleville; Rebecca Stille of Alhambra and Patricia Wolz of Waterloo.

Elevated as king at the coronation ball will be Jason Cook of Godfrey.

Catholic Charities places 19 in foster homes during month

Catholic Charities, a United Way agency, offers a variety of services to the community. Between June 15 to July 15, Catholic Charities social workers placed 19 children in foster homes.

These are youngsters who, for various reasons, are separated from their natural families. Catholic Charities works with the children, their families and the foster parents with the hopes of partial fulfillment of the requirements for the master of social work degree in social work.

Together with the Child Welfare cases, the agency also has under care 45 married parents. In these cases, the social workers endeavor to help these young people secure good medical care, housing, financial aid and counsel with them to help them reach a wise decision regarding the futures of their babies.

SIUE to review two degree programs

The Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) has requested the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees to review two of the SIUE at Edwardsville degree programs and to make a report on future directions of the programs by April 1, 1982.

The programs — The M.A. in Philosophy and the Ed.D. in Instructional Process — were among 30 programs at 11 universities reviewed in 1979-80 that the IBHE said should have additional examination in 1981-82.

In March, the SIUE Board of Trustees eliminated two programs and made a determination to continue two other programs which had been under review. Eliminated were the B.S. in Economics in the department of secondary education and the M.A. in Mathematics, providing consolidation of the graduate-level resources of the department of mathematics, statistics and computer science in the M.S. in Mathematics program.

Following a review of the M.A. and M.S. programs in Geography, the SIUE Board noted that enrollments in the programs had increased, the curricula had been revised, and student-faculty contact and advisement had improved. A decision was made to continue the programs although the University will continue to monitor the situation for another year before submitting a final report.

The University also reported that the B.S. in Social Work program had been granted initial accreditation through 1983, and the University did not view integration of the program with the B.A. and B.S. in Human Services programs to be desirable.

The IBHE has established a set of procedures whereby each University in the state reviews all of its programs over a five-year period and annually reports the results of the reviews conducted each year.

In other action the IBHE approved allocation of grants provided by the Higher Education Cooperation Act, including a $25,000 grant to SIUE that will complete the University's Library Computer System project.

A $40,000 grant for the Outreach Program — Master of Science in Community Health Nursing was approved for the University of Illinois at the Medical Center and SIUE at Edwardsville. The project will develop a cadre of nursing faculty with preparation in community health nursing at the master's degree level for SIUE.

Also approved was a $25,000 continuing grant to the Southern Illinois Cooperative Arts project, in which 14 institutions are sharing resources for cooperative on-campus arts program development. The participating institutions include SIUE, Belleville Area College, Kaskaskia College, Lewis and Clark Community College, and State Community College of East St. Louis.

Illini look forward to coming cage season

CHAMPAIGN — The technique may be different, but the outcome will hopefully be the same for the University of Illinois basketball team in 1981-82.

Gone from last year's 21-8 team that reached the third round of the NCAA playoffs is the entire starting front line. Six-eight forwards Eddie Johnson and Mark Smith and 6-11 center Derek Holcomb all were chosen in the first three rounds of the NBA's draft.

"With talent like that, the Illini have been an inside dominated team for the past three years. But now the Illini will make a switch, changing the emphasis from the inside to the outside."

"We have a lot of talent coming back at guard, so naturally we want to take advantage of it," said Illini head coach Lou Henson. "Even though the guards might be doing more for us next year, it won't mean we've changed our philosophy. We still want them to take the high percentage shot, protect the ball, rebound hard and play good, tough defense."

The nucleus at guard is made up of seniors Perry Range and Craig Tucker and sophomores Derek Harper, Juniors Kevin Bontemps and Quinn Richardson provide ample bench strength.

"We want to see if we can get the ball off the boards, get it down the court," Henson said. "We've done a pretty good job of it the last couple of years (The Illini led the Big Ten in scoring the last two seasons), but we still need to work on it."

The responsibility of igniting that fast break will fall on 6-10 senior center James Griffin. The slim Texan split time in the pivot with Holcomb the last three years, so experience is no problem.

"Griffin just needs to be more aggressive," Henson said. "He made real good progress last season, but now that we're asking him to go 35 or 40 minutes a game, he's going to have to become more consistent. I think he'll surprise a lot of people."

At forward, 6-10 senior Bryan Leonard will get first crack at a starting spot. He was the top forward off the bench last year, but will likely see action as a backup to Griffin as well.

The other forward candidates are all freshmen: Jay Daniels (6-7, West Palm Beach, Fla.), Dee Maras (6-7, Antioch, Ill.), George Montgomery (6-8, Chicago, Ill.) and Anthony Welch (6-8, Grand Rapids, Mich.).

"It's very difficult for a freshman to come into the Big Ten and play right away," Henson said. "We'd like to bring all of them along slowly, but we don't really have a choice. We're going to have to play two or three of them quite a bit. We'll just wait and see who shows us the most in the fall and go with them."

PLAYER SKETCHES
KEVIN BONTEMPS (6-1, Jr., Morton, Ill.) — Two-time letter winner, part-time starter at guard as frosh, excellent ball handler and passer, good outside shooter, appeared in 20 games at frosh, 19 last season, a 34 blocked shots last year and 37 the year before, Illini have won 17 of last 18 games in which he's scored in double figures.

DEREK HARPER (6-4, So., West Palm Beach, Fla.) — Named to all-America freshman teams chosen by NBC-TV and ESPN, set school records for most assists in a game (12, twice) and season (156), honorable mention all-Big Ten pick, second in conference in assists, excellent ball handler, he's the player that directs the Illini's offense, one of top defensive guards in league, too.

AMERICA SQUADS
JAMES GRIFFIN (6-10, Sr., Grandview, Tex.) — Illini's most experienced player coming back, he's shared time in the pivot with departed Derek Holcomb for last three years, outstanding scorer, he's going to spend summer working on his defense, good leaper, he had 34 blocked shots last year and 37 the year before, Illini have won 17 of last 18 games in which he's scored in double figures.

DEREK HARPER (6-4, So., West Palm Beach, Fla.) — Named to all-America freshman teams chosen by NBC-TV and ESPN, set school records for most assists in a game (12, twice) and season (156), honorable mention all-Big Ten pick, second in conference in assists, excellent ball handler, he's the player that directs the Illini's offense, one of top defensive guards in league, too.

BRYAN LEONARD (6-10, Sr., Belleville, Ill.) — The top forward off the bench last season, appeared in 25 games averaging two points per outing, extremely intelligent, good leaper, came back last season after sitting out 1979-80 season with torn hamstring, has two seasons of eligibility left, will get 1 shot at open forward spots.

DEE MARAS (6-7, Fr., Antioch, Ill.) — A rugged hard-nosed player who helped lead Antioch to the state tournament and 23-6 record, leading scorer, rebounder and MVP of Northwest Suburban League, averaged 20 points and 11 rebounds a game, shot 56 percent from field and 60 percent from line. Will play on AAU Junior Olympic team in China this summer.

PERRY RANGE (6-4, Sr., South Beloit, Ill.) — Could very well be the top defensive player in the country, counting anybody at any size, two-year starter, showed good scoring punch last year with nine points a game, has shot better than 50 percent from field all three years, was third in Big Ten in free throw percentages.

QUINN RICHARDSON (5-11, Jr., Robbins, Ill.) — Reserve guard the last two years, earning one letter, spark plug who gives the team a lift when he enters, called on in clutch situations last year for his hustle and outstanding defensive play, good speed, he ran dashes for Illini track team, strongest player on team despite his relatively small stature.

CRAIG TUCKER (6-1, Sr., Flint, Mich.) — Illini's best offensive player, he can fire from long range or penetrate through an entire defense, had team-high 29 points in one game vs. NCAA qualifier Brigham Young, top scorer last year among returnees with 10.7 points a game, transferred to Illinois after two seasons as an all-America at Coffeyville (Kan.) Community College.

ANTHONY WELCH (6-8, Fr., Grand Rapids, Mich.) — A second-team all-star in Michigan last spring, averaged 19.6 points, 14.6 rebounds and 3.3 blocked shots a game, shot 52 percent from field and 74 percent from line, missed most of junior season because of broken arm, has grown six inches the last two years and still is just 17 years old.

Cougars ready for tough soccer schedule

EDWARDSVILLE — With just 13 days between the first day of practice and the opening exhibition game against the British College Select (BCS) team, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville head soccer coach Bob Gunkler will be hard pressed to find the right combination of talents to prepare for one of the toughest schedules in SIUE history.

The Cougars, who open the season by hosting the International Invitational Exhibition Soccer Tournament, will battle the BCS team Aug. 26, beginning at 7 p.m. at Cougar Field. Two days after, the Cougars will host Akron University and on Aug. 30, SIUE will end the round-robin tournament with a scheduled 8 p.m. match against the Universities Athletic Union Select team of Britain.

With their final pre-season tuneup Sept. 1, against the SIUE alumni, the Cougars will open their 1981 intercollegiate schedule at the University of South Carolina (USC) Tournament. SIUE will kick off the two-day event with a 3 p.m. game against Lynchburg College, Sept. 4, and will conclude the tournament during the regular season.

The Cougars' first home game of the year is set for Sept. 11, when the Purple Aces of the University of Evansville invade Cougar Field at 8 p.m. The Cougars will also host such powerhouse as Avila College, Texas Christian University, the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, the University of Illinois-Chicago Circle, the Air Force Academy and Brigham Young University during the regular season. The Cougars will also play host to the SIUE Tournament. This year's tournament (which is scheduled to get underway Sept. 18), includes Cleveland State University, Rockhurst College and Southern Methodist University.

GRANITE CITY — For those athletes that could not compete in the soccer leagues or tournaments, currently competing at Soccer For Fun, Inc., Manager Mike Moore has announced plans for the fall season.

The new leagues begin the week of August 24, and Teams for all leagues and tournaments are divided into age groups. The categories for the Junior Boys and Girls are ages 10-under, 11-12, 13-14, 15-16 or 17-18 for girls. The Senior Men and Women leagues are divided into leagues of 17 and over, both A and B classifications, men over-30, and women 25-over. Applications for leagues and tournaments are on a first-come, first-served basis. Applications can be picked up at the snack bar at the facility at 4141 Highway 111 in Granite City.

Interested participants may also call (618) 797-0619 after 12 noon. We've been getting strong responses lately, so I would advise interested players and teams to contact us early as possible. We even expect a better response than in the past," Moore said.

Jennings killed

SWEETWATER, Tenn. — Three people on their way to pick up Philadelphia 76ers star Dennis Collins were killed here Friday morning when their private plane crashed into a mountainside.

Killed were Chip Jennings, 18, Larry Denmore, 35, and his son Matt Denmore, 11. All three were from Olney, Ill., and were going to pick up Collins and take him back to Olney where he was to appear at a basketball clinic Saturday.

According to reports, there was inclement weather and the tops of some of the mountains were not visible. Larry Denmore was the pilot of the plane.

Jennings was an All-State basketball player for East Alton High School in Olney and had accepted a scholarship to play next season as a freshman at Three Rivers Junior College in Poplar Bluff, Mo. He just last month played in the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association All-Star game in Peoria, along with many other players from around the state, including some from the Quad Cities Area.

The Piper Aircraft took off early Friday morning from the Olney Airport and crashed at approximately 8:10 a.m. CDT. They were due to arrive at the Sweetwater Airport at 9:45 a.m. A search party found the wreckage at about 3:30 p.m. The bodies were burned beyond recognition. Authorities said the plane, which clipped the tops of some tall trees before crashing, apparently exploded on impact.

Moore getting 'kicks' out of Soccer for Fun

By TERRY MACKIN
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Painted on the outside of a large building located on Highway 111 in Granite City are the words "Soccer For Fun." A large soccer ball is close by.

Inside the building, The Great Indoors Soccer Tournament is in full swing. Two teams of boys aged 14 and under are fighting for a trophy that represents the right to wave a "number one" sign.

In the bleachers that surround "number one" the turf playing field, several middle age fans cheer for their team. A few young girls skip in front of the bleachers, watching the action through the fiberglass that is between the field and fans.

Outside of the playing area, hamburgers, potato chips, sodas are being consumed as quickly as the young soccer players are running. Only the bodies are a bit more wrinkled.

Mike Moore could not be happier. Just over three months ago, when Moore left his job as placement director at Belleville Area College to become soccer coordinator at Soccer For Fun, he did not know what to expect. But he was willing to take the chance.

His office is a mixture of schedules, calendars, soccer jerseys, names, and a few trophies from Belleville Area College, where Moore is still the head soccer coach. A bulletin board above the desk is covered with even more schedules and rosters for league that fill the building seven days a week, twelve months a year.

"I knew it would take time for the place to establish itself, but I really didn't think it would happen this fast. We're starting to get a lot of teams to come over from St. Louis to play in tournaments, and that really helps."

"Word of mouth is the best way to advertise a business, and we have been getting some very positive results."

Moore says that he has seen most of the other indoor-soccer facilities in the St. Louis area, and rates the Granite City facility as one of the best.

"It is much easier to start a business in a building from scratch, where this place was built with the intention of indoor soccer, most of the other places are conversions from other types of businesses."

"But playing-wise, from the responses of players, our facilities are much easier to play on. We have had few complaints."

Moore feels that indoor soccer is rapidly growing nation-wide, and not just in the St. Louis area because of the emergence of the Steamers.

"Our own clubs are spreading nationwide, so there must be a growing interest in the sport."

But he does feel the Steamers have played an important role.

Moore said when the Soccer For Fun Facility first opened, many of the Steamers players were on hand for various camps and clinics. Don Ebert, Danny Vaninger, John Stremmler, and Greg Makowski have all been in Granite City, sharing their knowledge of the sport.

He also cited the possibility of having Steamer's goalie Sloba Iljevski on at the facility in the near future for a goalie clinic.

"Nothing is definite now, but it is a very good possibility."

There are leagues for everyone at the Soccer For Fun. Boys and girls, from age ten and under to 16 have various leagues and tournaments to choose from. In the senior men's and women's classification, there are leagues for players age 17 and over and a men's 30 and over league. Moore plays in the 30 and over league.

"There are some pretty big names in that league. Pat McBride, Bob Kehoe (Granite City North coach) and Dave Sorber (Flo Valley head coach) all play."

But the classic league is on Tuesday nights when women over age 25 have one hour to display their soccer talents.

"Most of the women are from the Granite City area, and have never played soccer before. I take the first half hour for instructions, and then let them use the second half hour for games. So far, it has been just great. The ladies are really willing to learn. Most have been watching soccer all of their life, and are now getting the chance to play."

"Tuesdays are really an enjoyable night."

And since the Soccer For Fun in Granite City has been successful, there are plans to expand the upstairs of the building.

"Nothing is official yet, but plans have been to put a shop upstairs which will be like a sporting goods store. We are also thinking along the lines of a full-sized bar."

"We get a lot of fans during tournaments, and we would like them to stay even when their teams are not playing."

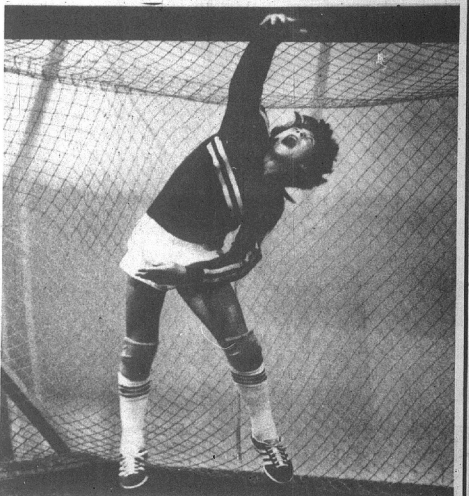

So while Moore was uncertain of his new job at first, he is very confident now.

"I am very glad that I made the move. Everything is going the way that we hoped that it would when we opened."

And maybe a little bit better. "We planned to close the facility for three weeks in July, thinking that business would be slow. But response has been so great that we haven't thought of locking the doors yet."

"Soccer For Fun." A way for Mike Moore to make a living.

TALYANA'S SCOTT BIASON (L) GOES FOR IT

More than 95 million bicycles on road

Due to renewed interest in physical fitness and energy conservation more people are turning to bicycles as an alternative means of transportation. In fact, latest figures show there are over 95 million bicycles in use today — more than ever before.

And with more bicycles on the road during summer months, the potential for bicycle accidents increases. This makes it especially important for everyone, not just bicycle riders, to understand the basics of bicycle safety. To help, Robert Heglund of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company's loss prevention department suggests the following tips:

Before you even get on the road, select a bike's that's right for your size and intended use. Make sure all equipment is in good working order and secure. When buying a bicycle for a child, parents should take the child with them to ensure a proper fit. Follow your dealer's suggestions and owner's guide to keep the bike property maintained — especially the tires and brakes.

Use reflective tape on the front, back and sides of your bicycle. Headlights and rear reflectors are a must for nighttime cycling. Liberty Mutual's Heglund also suggests wearing light-colored or reflective clothing at night or in bad weather. Wearing a bike helmet is a good idea.

Ride single file and on the right with the flow of traffic. Size up the whole scene, not just what is immediately in front of you. Be sure to watch out for cars pulling into traffic from the curb and for car doors opening suddenly. Never carry passengers or anything that obstructs your vision or interferes with your control of the bicycle. Carry small articles in a basket attached to your handlebars or the rack behind the seat.

Above all, obey all traffic laws and bicycle regulations in your community. Give pedestrians the right of way. Use hand signals for turns, stops and lane changes. And don't be afraid to use your voice as a signal, if necessary.

Motorists should respect the bicyclist as another vehicle on the road. Obey traffic laws, and signal properly. Study the whole traffic scene, not just one car in front of you.

Be prepared to meet bicyclists on the road — especially at intersections. Double check for bicyclists when merging into traffic or opening car doors. Share the road. Don't force cyclists onto the shoulder? It could be dangerously rocky, causing the cyclist to fall in your path.

Don't try to get cyclists' attention by blaring the horn — you could startle them and cause them to swerve or lose control of their bikes. If you want to notify a cyclist of your presence, gently tap the horn a few times.

Remember that both bicycles and cars have a legal right to the road. Safe driving and cycling conditions are possible only if everyone cooperates.

Cooling claims may be made to EOC-Wolf

State Representative Sam Wolf of Granite City has announced that Madison County residents with certain medical conditions who need assistance in paying their cooling energy bills should contact Ruben Williams of the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission, 3034 Godfrey Road, P.O. Box 306, Godfrey, Ill. 62033 (Phone 462-1157).

This program is administered statewide by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

"One time individual household assistance payments may range from $70 to $180," Wolf said, "and are based on income and geographic location."

Representative Wolf cautioned that these assistance amounts represent statewide figures, therefore local residents should contact Williams to determine the payment level for their area.

"We are placing special emphasis on assistance to the elderly and the handicapped with medical conditions such as heart disease, stroke, skin disease, diabetes, heat exhaustion and other conditions which can be alleviated by cooling facilities," Wolf said, "since these groups are frequently the hardest hit with high energy and medical bills."

"I urge all senior citizens, handicapped individuals and others who think they may qualify for assistance to contact the above mentioned local agency as soon as possible or call the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs energy hotline at 1-800-252-8643 for more information."

Moves to end disability payments to prisoners

U.S. Senator Jack Danforth, a member of the Senate Subcommittee on Prisons, has announced that the Bureau of Prisons will move to cut off social security disability payments to federal prisoners.

"With the so-called 'Son of Sam' amendment in 1980, Congress ordered an end to disability payments to federal and state prisoners," Danforth (R-Mo.) said. "It's unacceptable that perhaps as much as $14 million in annual benefits have continued to flow to federal and state prisoners at a time when the condition of the social security trust funds is forcing difficult decisions to control future benefit costs."

In late May, a Springfield television reporter uncovered the fact that bureaucratic paralysis is protecting federal prisoners from the Son of Sam amendment, Danforth said. KTVI-TV's Springfield report of the Bureau of Prisons had taken the position that the federal Privacy Act prevented it from turning over inmate records to the Social Security Administration for cross-checking against disability payment rolls.

Danforth suggested, after the report, that the Bureau of Prisons pursue administrative action to exempt its records from the Privacy Act. On Thursday, the Bureau reported to Danforth that it would recommend proposal of a rule to create the exemption. After public comment on the rule, it could be made final and the Social Security Administration would perform the simple computer operation of cross-checking its disability rolls with the Bureau of Prisons' inmate records.

"As the TV station reported, the problem was the familiar story of the bureaucracy's right hand not knowing what the left hand is doing," Danforth said.

"Springfield is the location of the Bureau's biggest medical surgical, and psychiatric facility, housing nearly 900 inmates. By Social Security estimate, as many as 3,000 federal and state prisoners may be drawing disability benefits."

Prisoners' administrative rule could be challenged in court, Danforth said, he is giving consideration to drawing a formal exemption amendment to be added to the upcoming package of social security changes.

Danforth said the amendment would insure that the courts could dismiss quickly any legal challenge to the administrative rule. It also would cut through the red tape that social security has with a few states that have their own privacy acts.

"Although I'm advised that Missouri is able to comply with the Social Security Administration's request for inmate records, about a half dozen have legal problems of their own," Danforth said. "Because of the higher population of state prisons, the dollar loss at the state level may be large."

Thus, any clarifying amendment would be drafted to insure that the Son of Sam amendment is being implemented at the state level, as well."

Pielet Brothers withdraw plans for scrap yard

After all the zoning battles, petition drives and city council debate which resulted in Pielet Brothers Scrap Iron and Metal Co. obtaining M-2 heavy industrial zoning to operate a scrap yard and smelter on Route 3 south of the Shasta bottling plant, the company has decided not to operate here.

The company has notified local authorities that it is no longer interested in purchasing the land now located here. No reason was given for the withdrawal.

The property will remain zoned M-2 and that classification was carried over to the city's new zoning map which is to be considered by the city council for adoption in the near future.

Teachers center project registration still open

Registration is still open for the Teachers' Center Project summer course, Aug. 16-22, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The course will deal with children's thinking, especially visual and mathematical thinking, at the elementary school level, said Tom C. O'Brien, project director.

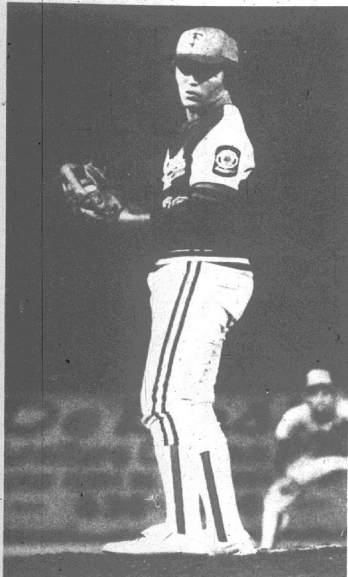

Dick Tahla, a founding member of the British Association of Teachers of Mathematics and professor at the University of Exeter, will join O'Brien as a guest lecturer for the session.

Tahla is author of "Starting Points," a book of mathematical activities published in seven languages. He is also a founding member of the British Leapfrogs group, a children's television research and production unit of the Associated Television Network (ATV).

O'Brien, professor of education at SIUE, is author of a dozen books for children. He is a former NATO Senior Research Fellow in Science.

The summer course meets daily at the Edwardsville campus.

Tuition is $54 for four hours credit. For additional information or to complete registration, interested persons may contact the Teachers' Center Project at Box 122, SIUE, or call 618-692-3082.

KEITH BURTON shows his form Friday night in the annual Missouri-Illinois All-Star American Legion baseball game at Heine Menine Field in St. Louis. Burton, who came in the game in the second inning, was the losing pitcher in the 18-3 Missouri win. But it wasn't all his fault. Even though he struck out the first batter and walked the next three before giving up his only hit, Burton's successors didn't even do as well.

Lock study funds committed

Interior Secretary James Watt has committed the Department of adequate funding of the study that must precede authorization of a second lock at Locks and Dam 26 on the Mississippi River, U.S. Senator Jack Danforth has announced.

Danforth (R-Mo.) secured Watt's commitment at a breakfast in Watt's office last week. At the meeting, Danforth said, Watt told him that the department will assemble the necessary $800,000 from four separate funds.

The money will fund a study by the Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission that is to be completed by Jan. 1, 1982.

When Congress authorized the $800 million project to replace the existing facility at Alton, Ill., authorization of a second lock was conditioned on completion of a Master Plan for the Upper Mississippi River Basin. Until the study is delivered, Congress cannot consider legislation to authorize a second lock.

Danforth, a leading proponent of the replacement project, has urged the Department of the Interior to find the money requested by the Commission for timely completion of the Master Plan. Commission Chairman Rod Seale, after trimming the body's initial funding request, sought the $800,000 that will be provided by Watt under the agreement with Danforth.

"As a proponent of replacement of the existing facility, I was pleased by Secretary Watt's appreciation of the project's importance to Mississippi River navigation and his commitment of funding that is critical to keeping a second lock on schedule," Danforth said.

After receiving the Commission's recommendations, Congress will be able to consider authorization of a second lock.

Danforth pushed for replacement of the facility because it is old, unsafe, and unable to provide speedy passage for the barge traffic.

Two named to pollution board

Governor James R. Thompson has announced the following appointments and reappointments:

Madison schools to buy driver education cars

Madison School District 12 may be buying driver education cars next year instead of leasing them as they have in the past.

At Thursday night's school board meeting, board members were informed that Big Four Chevrolet, the company from which the district has previously rented the cars, is discontinuing the driver education program.

It also was noted that the auditorium stage curtains are now hanging in the high school gym. Mrs. Billie Bosworth commended the Mother's Club and the Boosters Club for their efforts in raising funds for the new curtains.

The board also voted to rehire four of the five teachers it had laid off at the end of the last school year in making faculty reductions.

Those re-employed are Norma Oram, Donna Reeves, Barbara Cox and Georgia Stawar.

You can... when you SHOP AT HOME!

Most people know they usually get better values and service when they shop at our local stores.

But did you know when you shop at home you also get back part of each dollar you spend? Here's how: spending more at home means more money in the form of wages to local merchants and their employees.

More wages mean more taxes for local government, mean more and better community services and improvements, mean a stronger and healthier economy all around.

Shop at home for better values, better service, a better community and more jobs!
